Lowell's Share of State Tax Only Meeting Here Today of City and Town Clerks of Middlesex County

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, June 5.—The tax assessed by the state on the city of Lowell this year is $290,160, a reduction of $8,320 from the figure of last year. This announcement, which was made today by the legislative committee on ways and means, will be a disappointment to city officials and to taxpayers generally, who hoped for a larger reduction in view of the fact that the total state tax has been reduced from 14 millions to 12 millions.

It appears, however, that a new basis of apportionment has been established this year, under which Lowell is compelled to pay a larger percentage of the total tax than formerly and therefore does not get the full benefit of the two million dollars reduction.

The figures on other places in this vicinity are: this year, Dracut, $160, last, $140; Billerica—this, $15,280; last, $17,920; Tewksbury—this, $6240, last, $7660; Tyngsboro—this, $2160, last, $2520; Westford—this, $2240, last, $10,220; Chelmsford—this, $14,040, last, $15,860.

City and town clerks of Middlesex county came to Lowell today for the first meeting of the association since the war. Several of the visitors were accompanied by members of their families.

Following a brief meeting at city hall at 10:30 o'clock and a visit to the Lowell Textile school the members of the association gathered for luncheon at Marie's restaurant at the New American House, with Hon. Frederic W. Cook, secretary of the commonwealth, as the principal after-dinner speaker. Others who spoke were Hon. George H. Brown, mayor and Edgar Howers, state registrar of vital statistics.

The visitors met at city hall at 10:30 o'clock and held a short business session in the council chamber, with the president of the association, W. De Haven Jones, city clerk of Melrose, as the presiding officer. Mayor Brown welcomed the visitors in behalf of the city.

Automobiles were furnished to take the guests to the Textile school, where they were taken through the several buildings by Principal Charles H. Eames. City Clerk Stephen Flynn was the official host and had carefully looked after all arrangements necessary for the entertainment of the visitors.

In the afternoon the party was taken to the Memorial auditorium, where nearly two hours were spent in looking over the building. Members of the association who were present were: W. De Haven Jones of Melrose, Frank E. Sanderson of Maynard, Archie W. Swallow of

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE AID IS NOW UNDER THE CIVIL SERVICE

Question Now Comes, However, as to Whether the Assistant Superintendent Is a Subordinate or Co-ordinate Officer—Legion Post Commander and City Solicitor Take Matter Up With Commissioner Dana—Opinion From Attorney General's Office Requested

Is Mrs. Mary P. McCann, assistant superintendent of state aid, a subordinate or a co-ordinate officer in that department?

That is the question that the attorney-general of the commonwealth will be asked to answer now that Elyson Dana, commissioner of civil service, has classified her as under civil service, right on the eve of the time when the city council would have taken action upon the mayor's nomination of Mrs.

Sarah L. Kittredge for the position. On petition of William A. Arnold, superintendent of state aid, Mrs. McCann was taken into the civil service fold yesterday afternoon, official notification of which will be received at city hall within a day or two. Commissioner Dana said today that he had so classified Mrs. McCann, for the reason that he believes legally she has the right to civil service protection, notwithstanding the fact that It's great sport. All the kids are doing it.

The trip is already started, but you can get aboard with the rest of the kids today and finish the trip with them by turning in

LILLIAN RUSSELL PASSES AWAY

"Queen of the American Opera" Died Early This Morning at Pittsburgh

Accident While on Ship Board Returning From Europe Proves Fatal

PITTSBURGH, June 5.—By the Associated Press.—Mrs. Lillian Russell Moore, who died early today at her home in this city, had been ill for several weeks following an accident while on ship board, when she was returning to this country from Europe. It was believed, however, last Saturday that she had passed the crisis and that she would recover. She was conscious until the end, which came at 2:20 o'clock.

Mrs. Moore was the wife of Alexander P. Moore, publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader.

The accident which, Dr. Schill-decker, one of her physicians, said was the primary cause of her illness and death, occurred when she was violently thrown on the ship during a storm. The effects of the injury were not immediately serious, nevertheless, and although she steadily failed in health after her arrival home, even those most closely associated with her were not aware of the decline.

Mrs. Moore's trip to Europe was undertaken at the request

U. S. Commissioner Explains Plan to End Strike in Lawrence Address

Provides for Workers to Return as Sign of Good Faith Under 10 P. C. Wage Cut

Just as Soon as Market Conditions Improve Wages Will Be Increased Again

LAWRENCE, June 5.—That he had reached a tentative agreement with some textile mill heads in New England to accept his proposition for settling the textile strike, was the declaration made here today by Robert M. McWade, United States conciliation commissioner, who addressed the meeting of the Patchogue-Plymouth Mills in seeking to restrain picketing. They will engage an attorney. They also intend, Organizer Francis J. Gorman stated, to swear out warrants for the arrest of two employees of the mill whom they allege assaulted pickets.

It is we, rather than the mill, who should be seeking the injunction," said Organizer Gorman.

Quinn Coal Company's Plant Swept By Flames That Called Out City's Entire Fire Fighting Equipment

RUINS OF QUINN COAL CO.'S PROPERTY, SHOWING MOTOR, AROUND WHICH FIRE IS BELIEVED TO HAVE ORIGINATED

Fire that made tremendous headway swept through the plant of the John P. Quinn Co. in Dix street last night, destroyed wagon, cement and wood-cutting sheds, burned up 16 coal carts and tons of coke and 200 cords of slab wood for an estimated loss of between $30,000 and $40,000.

For the second time within nine days the entire fire fighting force of the city was called out by a general alarm and it was the fourth fire within that time that has necessitated extra alarms. Beginning with the Scott block fire a week ago Sunday, the department has fought big fires at the Prentiss storehouse, the old Tyler block and the Quinn plant in rapid succession. The aggregate loss on the four will reach $150,000.

Many Buildings Threatened

Last night's fire was the most spectacular that the city has experienced for years. The flames shot up hundreds of feet and cast a ruddy glow in the sky that could be seen for miles. Frame buildings in the neighborhood and the former plant of the Federal Shoe Co. were constantly threatened by clouds of fast traveling sparks and while a number of roof fires sprang up on blocks in Gorham street, volunteers and firemen snuffed them out with extinguishers. The Mullin Coal Co. also abutted the Quinn property on the Gorham street end, but as the fire worked away from that direction the former plant was not seriously threatened although it was necessary to keep its buildings thoroughly wet.

It was just 9:40 o'clock when the fire was discovered and an alarm was sent in over Box 47 at Gorham and Moore streets. Evidently it had been burning within buildings for some time previous, for the first round of the box had not been sounded before the flames were leaping skyward. It is believed that the fire started in the motor room of the wood-cutting shed.

WAGE CUT FOR 400,000 SHOPMEN ORDERED BY R.R. LABOR BOARD

Award Announced Over Strong Protests of Three Labor Representatives on Board—Made "With No Consideration for Human Needs," Says Minority—Cut Totals $60,000,000

CHICAGO, June 5.—(By the Associated Press) Over the strong protest of the three labor representatives on the United States Railroad Labor board, a new wage cut of seven cents an hour for railway shop mechanics and nine cents for freight car men, cutting 400,000 shopmen approximately $60,000,000 a year, was ordered by the board today.

The new wage reduction brought an estimated added saving of $55,650,317 annually to the railroads, following on the heels of a $50,000,000 cut in the wages of maintenance of way laborers last week. The shop crafts decision becomes effective July 1, the same date as last week's order.

R.R. SHOPMEN TO TAKE VOTE AS RESULT OF WAGE CUT

B. M. Jewell Says Reductions Ordered Today by R. R. Labor Board Only Intensify Feeling of Dissatisfaction With Railway Labor Conditions—Predicts Strike Vote Returnable June 30

CINCINNATI, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—New wage reductions for shopmen, ordered by the railroad labor board today, can only intensify the present feeling of dissatisfaction with railway labor conditions and will at least result in an immediate strike vote, returnable June 30, according to B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts unions, here today for a railroad strike conference. With the strike vote returnable June 30, a walkout could be called on July 1, the day the cut goes into effect, although Mr. Jewell refused to predict whether such action would be taken.

Delay Decision on Telegraphers

CHICAGO, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—It was learned today that the United States Railroad Labor board decision affecting telegraphers, the next class of employees to be dealt with in a wage ruling, will not be available for some time and undoubtedly will not be issued in time to become effective July 1, the date the BOSTON, June 6.—That pneumonia may be contracted under circumstances making it an accident, within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act, is the decision of David T. Weatherhead's claim for compensation for the time he was ill with the disease is upheld by Commissioner Dickinson, in a decision which is expected to guide the board in all future cases of its kind.

FREE TO Ruptured Women

If You Have a Large Navel Rupture or Have Suffered Rupture After An Operation, Try My Plan Free.

Special Corset Attachment for Large, Flashy Women, Gives Neck, Trim Figure, Holds Rupture Securely.

Mrs. G. C. Reid, representing Wm. S. Rice, Inc., Adams, N. Y., has a special corset attachment that holds any rupture no matter how large. Even if the abdomen is very fleshy, it holds any rupture, with ease, comfort and security. Hundreds of women in Lowell and vicinity are in need of just such a support, as Mrs. Reid is able to supply. Experience has shown that many women are unable to wear a corset because of large Navel Ruptures or those following operations. The special surgical corset and rupture support combined is designed to care for all such conditions.

Doubtless every woman who has been compelled to wear an ordinary truss or abdominal support knows the gouging, cutting and chafing caused by narrow bands. The weight of the abdomen must be carried by the band around the back and the pressure is sometimes very great, causing untold suffering. The special broad supporting corset attachment does away with all cutting, chafing and binding. It is light, flexible, durable, cool and fits the figure like a glove. It gives you a sense of absolute security and protection.

Mrs. Reid will be at the Richardson Hotel, Lowell, Mass., afternoon and evening of June 7, all day and evening of June 8, to demonstrate this marvelous support free to all women. She wants to fit it on you and prove to you that it is a great blessing to all rupture afflicted women. No matter what you have tried now is your opportunity to find out just what you require, and get the benefit of a free personal application, by a competent lady expert.

Why be burdened with rupture and suffer the continual annoyance of wearing trusses if you don't have to? Why not use the Rice Method and prove to your entire satisfaction what results are possible in your case? Thousands have been able to throw away their trusses after a brief application of the Rice Method and there are thousands who are still suffering the tortures of rupture because they know not where to turn for relief. Mrs. Reid is in Lowell, to give all such women the benefit of her experience and knowledge of hernia and invites you to her private apartments at the Richardson Hotel. Do not fail to get this free demonstration.

Remember, Mrs. Reid will be in Lowell only two days, then your opportunity will be gone, so, by all means don't fail to call and see this wonderful demonstration.

PHARMACISTS WILL MEET IN SWAMPSCOTT

The forty-first annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association will be held in the New Ocean House, Swampscott, Wednesday and Thursday, June 14 and 15. The members of this association are all registered pharmacists and in a large number of cases graduates of the College of Pharmacy and are well fitted to carry on the business of serving the public in this profession. They are at their posts early in the morning and late in the evening, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. Over two million prescriptions are compounded each year by these men and it is a rare occurrence where an error is made. This is exclusive of where liquors are prescribed by physicians. Carefulness is the motto of the pharmacist.

This association has on its roll of membership over eighty-five per cent of the pharmacists of the state. In every city and town in the state are one or more. At the annual convention, they come together and discuss matters of interest to the public and themselves and work for legislation that will attain that end by approving good and opposing bad legislation. At the convention, addresses will be made by Dean Bradley of the College of Pharmacy and Charles W. Pearson of the same college faculty, Major George W. Burroughs, who had charge of the distribution of Red Cross supplies in Europe during the world war, Mr. James F. Flanagan of the executive committee of the National Association of Retail Druggists and Mr. J. Fred Wright, chairman of the legislative committee.

Mr. Elmer C. Potter, prohibition director for Massachusetts, will address the convention at 11 o'clock on Thursday morning, June 15. Mr. William H. Glover of Lawrence will preside at all the sessions of the convention. All pharmacists are invited to the meetings.

THE NESMITH FUND CASE IN COURT

The city of Lowell has 30 days in which to file its answer to information placed before the clerk of the supreme court yesterday by the Thomas Nesmith heirs relative to the disappearance of the Nesmith-Worthy Poor fund from the city books.

There was no court session yesterday and City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney was informed by the clerk that he might take advantage of the 30-day period of grace if he so desired. When the city's answer is filed, the court will determine how the fund of $25,000 shall be restored—whether it shall go back to the heirs or whether the city will continue to hold it in trust.

It is believed that City Solicitor Tierney strongly is in favor of having the fund rehabilitated and returned to the Nesmith heirs, rather than to allow the city to continue to hold it in trust.

RADIO CALLS CHIEFS TO ANNUAL GATHERING

BY PAUL F. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority
Chiefs of police throughout this country and Canada are being invited to attend the convention of their international association by radio. August Vollmer, head of the organization, has worked out a scheme to reach each member by wireless, whether he has a set or not.

There are hundreds of small villages and towns, and even a great many cities whose police headquarters are not equipped with receiving equipment. But it is doubtful if there is any town of any size without a radio amateur who is interested in relaying wireless messages.

So Chief Vollmer called in the "miniature men of radio"—the American Radio Relay League. The officers promised to deliver the message and soon had its organization of 25,000 radio amateurs preparing for the transmission.

The convention opens in San Francisco on June 15. The success of their previous enterprises staged by the relay league augurs well for their success.

"Some time between 10 p. m. and midnight of our local standard time," reads the official announcement to the amateurs, "some station will break loose with the message of invitation. The call letters of this station and the time of starting will not be known. The message will come as a surprise right out of a clear sky. It will be broadcast once at 10 words a minute, each word being sent twice. Once a station broadcasts a message, that station will cease firing. That will be the start of the message."

Great stress was laid upon the necessity for accuracy in making copy, and for the actual delivery.

PLAN BIG RADIO SHOW IN CHICAGO

That the Chicago Radio show to be held in the Coliseum in October, will substantiate its sub-title, (International and annual), is proven by the recent dispatch from Paris: Wilbur Williams, who has been touring Europe in the interest of the exposition, recently secured a preliminary program. Among the shows he would include the Chicago dates in his calendar and would undoubtedly be present for an entire day during the exposition period.

Madame Eleonora Duse, the Italian tragedienne, who will make a tour of the United States in the fall, was also visited by Mr. Williams at her villa in Venice, and he found her an ardent radio enthusiast. She has a gorgeous sun-parlor fitted with a powerful receiving instrument, enabling her to enjoy the operatic entertainment rendered by the radio.

Mr. Williams reports that the foreign manufacturers are keenly interested in the rapid developments in the American radio market, and will return to America with an interesting list of prospective exhibitors.

The foreign consuls have a keen interest in the forthcoming event, especially those of Great Britain, France, Italy and Switzerland, and it is expected that the manufacturers of these countries will have an important representation of their products.

Radio Popular? Miniatures, Freaks, New Fashions Prove It Is

Miniatures, freaks, new fashions! Radio is getting its quota, just as other popular innovations have had theirs.

There is still a question as to who has the smallest radio set. And while the discussion rages, more "smallest radio sets" crop up.

Among the latest is the miniature made by Allen Turner, Los Angeles newspaper artist. It covers the tip of his finger.

Turner says he has heard concerts and lectures with his "radio orkset," broadcast from as far as 50 miles off.

Ring Set
William H. Rief of Manassah, N. J., comes forth with his ring radio receiver. Everything is mounted on a brass ring—except the telephone receiver.

But Sidney Kasindorf of New York, says his little "safety razor set" is most practicable of all miniatures. Besides the receiving apparatus, he has a buzzer connection and battery to test the crystal. He has heard WJZ at Newark distinctly.

Among the freaks displayed recently at the radio show in New York, Miss Winifred Lockhart Willis had three. On her finger was a ring crystal receiving set. Between two fingers she held a cigarette radio set, and from her neck hung a necklace set.

The cigarette set contained complete receiving apparatus inside and reaching out from one end were two stretches of wire—the antenna—like an ant's feelers.

Fashion also claims part in the development of radio toward general popularity. The radio garter isn't new. Miss Willis has produced the radio necklace.

From Los Angeles comes Miss Pamela Rains with her "radio phonette," a combination lamp and radio set. It's shaped like a parlor lamp, can be covered over for use as an electric light, or with cover up can be manipulated for receiving broadcast concerts.

For Your Baby—

What is more desirable than vigorous health?

MRS. Sparr is an enthusiast about Borden's Eagle Brand Milk because she has brought up her little son Villier on it. And he is a splendid vigorous boy. ".... his constant good health has made him full of vim and pep," she says. Villier is fifteen months old and has already begun to learn his ABC's. For keen mental development usually accompanies good health in children.

No mother need experiment with her baby's food. Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for generations. There are no doubts about its purity or its splendid results. Many thousands of grateful mothers have testified to its benefits. And doctors recommend it for weak and puny babies—for it is so easily digested.

Borden Eagle Brand Milk is not a prepared food. It is only pure milk combined with pure sugar—the natural food, if for any reason mother's milk fails. Your grocer has it. Always pure and uniform.

You owe it to yourself, then, to find out the cause of your trouble. And it's time you gave some thought to your kidneys. Your kidneys, you know, are the blood-filters. Let them weaken and the effect on blood and nerves is quickly apparent. Your back aches, you have sharp stabs of pain; you are nervous, weak, tired out and depressed. Your head aches, you are dizzy, and apt to have annoying bladder difficulties. But don't worry! If treated in time kidney troubles are usually easy to correct. Just take things easier for awhile, get plenty of rest and sleep, and help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's has helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

UPHOLD ANGLO-IRISH TREATY

Report Griffith and Collins Have Agreed to Observe Full Terms of Pact

Will Mean the Throwing of Eamon de Valera Overboard

LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The Daily Mail's political correspondent says British government circles believe Griffith and Collins have agreed to observe the full terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty, even though this means throwing Eamon de Valera overboard. The Dublin correspondent of the same newspaper reports the impression that the Collins-de Valera pact will be abandoned after the elections.

Surprise is expressed here at Collins and De Valera's joint appeal for the support of the electors for the coalition panel in the elections and the withdrawal of many independent candidates, but will encourage the extremists forcibly to prevent the election of those ignoring the appeal.

Quinn Plant Swept by Flames

A second alarm was pulled at 9:45, followed seven minutes later by a third.

22 Horses Taken Out

The firemen had their work cut out for them the moment they arrived, for at that time the flames were rapidly spreading down the yard, sweeping the wooden sheds toward the stable. Twenty-two horses in the stable were taken to safety by volunteers, including Redmond Gray, Daniel Ryan, John Sheehan and Dick Donnelly.

The heat thrown off by the fire was staggering and while the firemen carried their hose right up into the teeth of the blaze, tongues of flame drove them back yard by yard. With the arrival of additional apparatus the first line of fire was reinforced by water being pumped from five hydrants in the vicinity and gradually the effect of so many streams was apparent.

Although there is space between the wood shed and the wagon shed, the fire was so hot in that opening that it was not possible to pull on the 16 foot carts. Firemen attempted to chop their way into the shed from Dix street, but before their axes could cut through the heavy timbers the flames had leaped across the opening and the firemen lost out in their battle.

Once the water began to drown out the flames a heavy pall of smoke settled over the yard, blotting out the picture. So dense was it that even the electric torches of the firemen could not penetrate it for more than a few feet and the work of cleaning up was made extremely difficult.

Loss Will Reach $40,000

Martin Quinn, one of the proprietors of the company, said that his loss will approximate $40,000. Between 1200 and 1400 bags of cement, 200 cords of slab wood, about 300 tons of coke and two cars of hay were in the path of the flames and while there may be some salvage, it is mostly a total loss. Mr. Quinn had no idea how the fire started, but expressed the belief that it had its origin in the motor room of the wood-cutting shed. Persons who were in the neighborhood at the time the first alarm was sounded, said that the fire was burning fiercely at that time. It spread rapidly because everything in its path was highly inflammable.

Gorham, Dix and Ellsworth streets were literally packed with spectators but scores of police under the direction of Superintendent Atkinson, Lieut. Ryan and Sgt. Frawley kept adequate fire lines near the buildings. Lines of hose that crossed Gorham street at Carter street, held up all street car traffic for some time, but the billiard line was opened up again at 11 o'clock.

Scene of the Fire

The scene of the fire today was a blackened mass of charred timbers, twisted metal supports and piles of burned and water-soaked wood and coke. The long row of wagons in the shed that backs up to Dix street were burned there they stood, even to the shafts. To the casual observer it is complete devastation, but undoubtedly there is some salvage possible in the ruins of the three sheds.

By the night of the day it was able to see just how close the fire came to the Federal Shoe Co. building, the walls of which were scorched. The southern end of the stable was burned out, but the fire was checked before it destroyed the whole of that building. One incident of the fire that was lost sight of last night because of the lack of darkness and the hazardous risk of getting in too close proximity to the flames, was the heavy work of the firemen in breaking into the Federal building to turn on the water curtain. This curtain, falling four stories practically saved that structure by greatly reducing the heat that continuously threatened it.

Rev. N. W. Matthews was sitting upon the veranda of his home in Ellsworth street when the fire alarm sounded. He had but to step around the corner and as he approached the Quinn plant flames were shooting high into the air. Rev. Mr. Matthews said today that the fire must have had a long headstart on the firemen and that it seemed to him as if the flames reached so high as to be caught and fanned by currents of air that were not noticed on the ground.

Conspicuous today amid the ruins is the blackened motor that supplied the power for wood cutting, around which the fire is supposed to have had its origin.

Insurance was carried by F. C. O'Brien.

NOTES OF THE FIRE

If it hadn't been for the police at last night's fire, the firemen would have been so hemmed in by the crowd that they could not do anything. Sgt. Atkinson arrived on the scene after the crowd had been pretty well marshalled by the officers, many of whom were in plain clothes; but in a case of that kind they go to work when called on.

At one point a crowd entered an alley to get a view of the blaze and was blocking the passage used by the firemen when Sgt. Cawley got a broom and holding it at both ends used it effectively to push back the surging crowd.

Police Officer O'Connell was at the Butler school when the alarm sounded and looking toward the wood yard, he saw the blaze leaping into the air. He ran to the scene and as he arrived, the Gorham street apparatus was laying its hose, and directly Chief Saunders and District Chief Sullivan were on the ground.

Dr. Thomas F. Carroll was the scene early. He goes to all fires except when engaged with his patients.

City Physician M. A. Tighe was also at the fire ready to render assistance in case of accident.

Some of the side streets were blocked with autos so that no vehicle could pass through. This was the condition at Chambers street where with a row of autos on either side the space left in the middle was too narrow to allow passage through by another auto.

A train at the Fletcher street crossing delayed the apparatus.

Wage Cut Ordered

of the board to set "a just and reasonable" wage.

"The tendency of this decision is to vindicate the propaganda of the railroads and consequently condemn such statements as the employees have been able to bring to public attention," the minority opinion said. It was signed by Albert O. Wharton, W. L. McManis and Albert Phillips, the labor representatives.

Supervisory forces of the railway shops were not decreased. After due consideration the decision said, it was felt that the duties and responsibilities of such forces warranted maintenance of the present rates.

The reduction for mechanics averaged a little more than 3 per cent all machinists, boiler-makers, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, electrical workers, carmen (except freight car men) molders, cupola tenders and core-makers and the regular and helper apprentices receiving a cut of seven cents an hour. Freight car men, commonly known as "car-knockers" and the object of some of the heaviest assaults by the roads in their battle for lower wages, were cut nine cents.

The larger cut was ordered for the "car knockers" because they had not believed their work did not require the same skilled service as other branches of car men's work.

More Reductions Coming

Car cleaners, who now received an average of $1.18 a day, were cut five cents an hour, or 40 cents a day.

The mechanics, whose daily rate now averaged from $5.11 for electrical workers to $5.23 for blacksmiths, will lose 56 cents a day under the new decision, bringing their daily wage to approximately $4.75.

The board's latest decision, which is to be followed shortly by reductions for railway clerks, telegraphers and all other classes of railway employees, except the train service men, was brief and offered no explanation of how the new rates were arrived at.

For "Some Recognized Standard"

Suggestion for "some recognized standard" to be worked out by the board and used as a basis for future wage adjustments, was contained in the minority report, which was several times longer than the majority decision. The labor members felt they said that the board "should initiate a study which shall determine the amount necessary to meet some recognized standard and that it must use its results as a basis for its decisions and that it must, through those decisions, transmit this information to the public."

The decision, the minority report continued, tended "to substantiate the position of the railroads that wages need not be established with reference to the needs of the family," contending that a minimum wage for the shops

"All over the house"—advised Mother

"Mother is a wonderful house-keeper. That's why I could hardly wait to have her see the little home that Ned and I have settled down in. It is so new and complete, and such a pleasure to take care of."

"It's lovely, dear," Mother said after I had shown her everything from cellar to attic. "Just too lovely for anything. Now let me tell you of something that will keep your little nest as healthy and fresh in the years to come as it is now."

"Then Mother told me about Sylpho-Nathol, a preparation that destroys germs and banishes the unpleasant odors that so often make their appearance in even the most scrupulously kept homes."

"Mother had brought a bottle of Sylpho-Nathol with her and we used it next morning in the mop water. Just a teaspoonful in a quart of warm water made a clean-smelling, pearly-gray solution ready for immediate use. Since that day I have never been without Sylpho-Nathol in the house."

"In the mop water it destroys the germs that are bound to get in floor cracks and crannies. In the scouring water it keeps the garbage can free from unpleasant smells—and I sprinkle it in every day because flies won't come near it. The sink drain hasn't even a trace of an odor when it's poured in regularly. Ned uses it as a sprinkle for the cellar, and, of course, I use it regularly in the bathroom around the fixtures and as a flush for the closet bowl."

Sylpho-Nathol is 100 times stronger than carbolic acid, but is as safe to have in the house as a cake of scouring soap. It comes in four handy sizes, 15c, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Your grocer, or druggist, has it. If he hasn't he can get it easily. Just ask for it by name—"Sylpho-Nathol."

GIRL NOW WELL AND STRONG

Daughter Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as Mother Advised

Wauseon, Ohio.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet at those times. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then able to do any work she wants to do—although she is still careful not to do heavy work—and so well and strong. We recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with ailing daughters, and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. A. M. BURKHOLDER, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct the cause of the trouble and disagreeable symptoms will disappear as they did in the case of Mrs. Burkholder's daughter.

MOTHERS—It is worthy of your confidence.

crafts should be 30c an hour, which would mean a rate of 87 cents for skilled mechanics.

"The savings to the railroads far exceed anything justified by the savings to the public in reduced rates," the dissenters said, adding that payroll slashes during the last six months of 1921 had been made including layoffs. At the annual rate of $1,300,000,000 "in strong contrast to the increasing prosperity of the roads."

"The majority failed to carry out the function for which the board was created," continues the majority report. "Such decisions giving no explanation to the public of the process by which the majority arrive at the rates established, give the public an impression that these rates are not founded upon a careful consideration of facts."

REV. RALPH GILLAM REVISITS LOWELL

Rev. Ralph Gillam, formerly pastor of the First Congregational church, dropped into The Sun office yesterday to make a friendly call. Mr. Gillam succeeded Dr. Warfield as pastor of the First church and during his stay in Lowell he was a frequent contributor to The Sun. While on a visit to the west he wrote a series of letters to The Sun describing his tour and the conditions of the country as he saw them, giving also graphic descriptions of the beauties of California scenery and the delicious climate of that state. For some years Mr. Gillam has been connected with the Atlanta, Ga. Theological seminary as professor of evangelism and English literature. He served overseas during the war as chaplain in the Second division and traveled in Germany, Belgium and France. During the past few weeks he has been in New Hampshire promoting extension work and arranging for evangelistic meetings to be held at some future date. In connection with his work at Atlanta, Rev. Mr. Gillam is quite active in the chamber of commerce and other movements for civic improvements. One of the papers speaking of his work said that in several of the places in which he served as pastor before coming to Atlanta, the membership of the churches of the community were attracted by his stirring sermons and shared in the benefit. He has been a leader in the Epworth league and other societies organized for religious effort. He is favorably remembered in Lowell as he made many warm friends during his stay here. He is gifted with a pleasing personality and is an eloquent preacher, who impresses his congregations with his zeal for the promotion of every good work.

Picture Story of Escape from Maniac's Trap

A madman forced Mrs. John Jenkins and Miss Kathryn McManan at a pistol-point to go with him to his shack near Omaha, Neb. The women are shown here at the edge of a pit inside the shack into which the madman threw them after shackling them with a heavy chain. One of the women later attracted the attention of H. E. Boyd. When Boyd came to their rescue, the madman pressed a revolver against his side and succeeded in chaining him. While the madman was digging a grave in which he intended to bury Boyd, Boyd pried himself loose and, with the chains still about him, jumped through a window and telephoned for aid. Sheriff Michael Clark and deputies are shown at the shack.

If You're Hunting a Job
In the Movies, Read This

ELEANOR BOARDMAN AND WILLIAM HAINES WERE PICKED FROM 1000 APPLICANTS FOR MOVIE JOBS BY ROBERT MCINTYRE, GOLDWYN CASTING DIRECTOR.

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, June 6.—You want a job in the movies. If you don't, somebody you know does. The one question asked thousands of times in fan mail is "What are my chances of getting into the movies?" This question is usually prefaced with a description of the aspirant.

Robert B. McIntyre, casting director for Goldwyn, recently looked over 1000 applicants. He chose two, Eleanor Boardman of New York and William Haines of Stanton, Va.

Miss Boardman is 21, five feet six, has gray eyes and brown hair, and weighs 125 pounds.

Few successful screen actresses are taller than Miss Boardman. Height is the most important factor. Face, figure, carriage and that vague attribute known as "personality" are largely dependent on height.

Many feminine applicants were more pregnate in the flesh than Miss Boardman. But they didn't screen well. Her first screen tests were unfavorable. A make-up expert thought the fault was in her make-up. He attended to that, and on her second test she gained McIntyre's approval.

Well, what did these fortunate young people gain? Stardom? No. They are now working as extras and going to school for six months. At the end of that time they may be given small parts in pictures.

It's a hard, long grind to movie stardom these days. If that is your goal, don't go to Hollywood unless you have the wherewithal for board and lodging for six months of unemployment.

Let those who consider the stage a higher form of art than the screen attend a showing of "Sonny," Richard Barthelmess' latest release. The stage play met with indifferent success. The film is Barthelmess' greatest vehicle, and probably will be recorded as one of the great pictures of the year.

The stage was so limited in its scope of action that the story was padded with song and dance numbers to make it entertaining. The film is a far more graphic presentation. Barthelmess' sincerity and sense of sentimental balance make the picture a dramatic masterpiece.

Agnes Ayres, like Gloria Swanson, won stardom through the merit of her acting. Now, like Gloria Swanson, she is making a style statement for herself. Thus she detracts from the quality that won her favor. In "The Ordeal" she changes costume for every scene and in most cases looks as if she were preparing to attend a dog fight.

BRINGS SUIT FOR PERSONAL INJURIES

An action of tort in the sum of $5,000 for alleged personal injuries, went to trial at the civil session of the superior court in this city this morning. The plaintiff in the case is Edward H. Earle of Westford, while the defendant is Austin B. Fletcher of Chelmsford. It is claimed that the defendant's automobile struck the plaintiff in North Chelmsford on June 6, 1921, while the latter was riding a bicycle. Before the case went to trial the jury took a view of the scene of the accident.

The case of Frederick E. Gray of Framingham vs. Joseph Withofsky, also of Framingham, an action of tort in the sum of $2,000 resulting from an alleged assault which took place yesterday morning, was brought to a close late yesterday afternoon, the plaintiff being awarded a verdict of $75.

STOLEN AUTO IS FOUND WRECKED

A Moon coupe owned by Miss Helen St. Pierre of the New England Steam Cleaning and Dye Works company of Merrimack street, was stolen from Boucher's garage at the corner of Fifth avenue and Avon street in Pawtucketville last evening. The entrance into the garage was made, it is said, by breaking the lock on the door. The car was recovered in a wrecked condition on the Pawtucket boulevard this morning and was towed to a local garage. The police have been notified.

OPENING MEETING OF BOY SCOUT DRIVE

Enthusiasm was a marked feature of the opening meeting of the Boy Scout drive held at the chamber of commerce rooms last night, and the crowd which attended in spite of the heat felt that the prospects warranted a feeling of confidence that at the first report meeting, which is to be held next Monday evening, in the chamber quarters at 8 o'clock, a large sum of money will be placed to the credit of the drive. The drive opens today. John M. O'Donoghue, in the absence of the president, acted as temporary chairman, and while occupied the position of secretary, reports from the captains were called for by Mr. O'Donoghue, and practically every team was reported well filled with good workers. Although some pledges and cash have already been received, they will not be accounted for until the first report meeting, at which time every worker is expected to report substantial progress. No card restrictions have been made, and it is of prime importance that the names of all contributors be carefully recorded and preserved, for record purposes. All checks for the scouts should be made payable to Charles F. Langley, treasurer, and forwarded to Boy Scout headquarters, 208 Fairburn building. The directors of the local chamber of commerce and the members of Lowell Rotary club have given their endorsement to the Boy Scout movement. At the regular meeting of the chamber of commerce directors, on May 22, resolutions were unanimously passed which stated that the members believed that such a movement properly conducted will aid in developing the city's youth through citizenship training, character building and Americanization work into good citizens, and that they not only endorsed the present effort and recommended the program of the scouts to all agencies seeking a boys' program with thoroughly proven constructive features in citizenship and character but they commended the program to all who, either by their personal efforts, or financial means, seek to better the standard of character, efficiency and citizenship in the youth of the city.

The president of the Lowell Boy Scouts, Mr. C. D. A. Grasse, has also received a letter from the Lowell Rotary club, in which he is informed that the organization voted at its last meeting to endorse the present drive.

Lillian Russell Passes Away

of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, to make an intensive study among prospective immigrants to the United States. She later appeared before a committee of congress and gave a detailed report of the observations abroad.

The funeral probably will be held Thursday, at Trinity church, with burial in this city.

Lillian Russell, "The queen of American opera," in private life Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, wife of the editor and publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader for more than 30 years starred in various operatic roles in the United States and England. She was one of the most popular singing actresses on the American stage.

Still famed for youthfulness and beauty after she retired from the stage, she toured her native land with a lecture on "How to Live a Hundred Years."

During the war Miss Russell was active in Red Cross and Liberty loan campaigns.

She was born in Clinton, N. H., Dec. 4, 1861, the daughter of Charles E. and Cynthia Leonard, and removed to Chicago with her parents when four years old, her father becoming a member of a printing firm.

Educated at the convent of the Sacred Heart, Chicago, she studied vocal and violin music and sang in a church choir. In 1876, she took a course in voice culture under Madame Scheremburg and later studied for opera under Leopold Damrosch.

Miss Russell's first stage appearance was in the chorus of Rice's "H. M. S. Pinafore" in 1879.

Ship Death List Cut From 80 to 34

BUENOS AIRES, June 6.—Discovery of additional survivors from the wreck of the steamship Villa Francia on the Parana river has brought the estimated death list from 80 to 34, according to advices to La Nation. It is believed the figure will be still further reduced.

To Form "Ford For President Club"

DETROIT, June 6.—P.W.M. organization of the "Ford for president club" and the naming of a committee formally to ask Henry Ford to become an independent candidate for the presidency, is planned by the manufacturer's townspeople, who have called a meeting at Dearborn for tonight. Mr. Ford has not publicly announced his attitude, but friends at Dearborn assert that he has indicated he would enter the race should the public desire him to do so.

Appeals for Protection of Armenians

WASHINGTON, June 6.—An appeal to the churches and their members to urge upon congress that the American government take necessary steps to "ensure permanent protection" of Armenians and other Christians under the Turkish rule" was announced today by the federal council of churches of Christ in America. The council's letter to church pastors favors among other things that the United States extend "financial support to whatever body assumes the trust of organizing the administration of Armenia." Asserting that the United States and its allies in the war pledged the Armenians protection from the Turks the council expresses opposition to the action of the allied powers in "preparing a treaty with the Turkish nationalists which threatens to return the Armenians to unrestricted Turkish control."

She played Mabel in a burlesque on "The Pirates of Penzance" at Tony Pastor's theatre. She took the name of Lillian Russell, her grace and charm soon winning for her the sobriquet of "Airy, fairy Lillian." She became a Casino theatre star and remained at that New York playhouse until 1899, when she became a member of Weber & Fields' stock company, singing with the famous comedians for several years. Later she was engaged as a prima donna by the McCaull Opera company, continuing there until her own company was organized. She then toured the United States and England, and at the end of several successful seasons, entered vaudeville. Miss Russell had been thrice married before becoming Mrs. Moore, first to Harry Graham, musical director of Rice's "H. M. S. Pinafore" company, from whom she was divorced in 1884; second, to Edward Solomon, conductor of the Casino theatre orchestra, New York, whose marriage she had annulled in 1894, and third, to Signor Peruggini, an operatic tenor, who died a number of years ago. She was married to Mr. Moore in 1913.

Always interested in the welfare of working girls, Mrs. Moore helped them in numerous and unostentatious ways. Her spirit of daring was shown in 1912, when she made a voyage in a Zeppelin over the city of Berlin.

DISTRESS AFTER EATING

"No matter how careful I was in the selection of my diet I always suffered distress after eating," says Mary A. Young, of 283 Broadway, Bangor, Me. The dyspepsia was complicated with nervousness and my sleep was not sound. I was tired all the time, got out of breath easily and did not have much strength or ambition. I had medical treatment but continued to suffer for six months.

"One day I read in a Bangor paper about a case similar to mine being benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I determined to give them a trial. After the first box I noticed improvement. My food seemed to digest better and I was slowly gaining in strength. I continued the treatment and soon the feeling of distress after eating was gone. I feel better than I have for a long time and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly have helped me more than any medicine I have taken, and am glad to do so."

THERE is a richness, a trueness of flavor, to Jersey Ice Cream agreeably surprising at first taste. It is usually remarked about, until acquaintance with Jersey proves this exceptional flavor to be not the exception.

We could make Jersey with a less true, a less satisfying flavor—at a higher profit; but a quarter of a century in this business has demonstrated to us that quality wins. And in ice cream, true, pure flavor is a big share of that quality.

Read This Story and Find Out What Are Your Chances When You Drink Bootleg Whiskey

Bottled Death!

THIS SHOWS E. S. WILCOX, GOVERNMENT CHEMIST AT WASHINGTON, WITH THE 38 SAMPLES OF BOOTLEG COLLECTED BY N. E. A. SERVICE FOR THE SUN THROUGHOUT THE NATION. OF THE 38 SAMPLES NINE OUT OF 10 WERE RANK POISON. ONLY TWO PROVED TO BE WHISKY OF PRE-PROHIBITION GRADE AND TWO TO BE PASSABLE GIN.

Nine Out of Ten Samples Poison—Bootleg Contains a Dangerous Concoction of Colored and Disguised Alcohol and Volatile Poisons—Samples Collected From Widely Scattered Cities

BY N. E. A. SERVICE
(Copyright, 1922, The Lowell Sun.)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—When you drink bootleg the chances are better than nine out of 10 that you are drinking rank poison.

The Sun through N. E. A. service has established this by chemical analyses of 38 samples of bootleg bought in 15 cities scattered throughout the nation.

The samples have been analyzed by government experts.

Only two of the 38 samples proved to be whiskey of pre-prohibition quality. One of these was purchased in Boston; the other in Washington. Two more were synthetic gin—held passable. One of these samples was from Cleveland, the other from Los Angeles.

But bootleg consumers in Boston, Washington, Cleveland and Los Angeles need not jump at the conclusion that because these samples were passable, all bootleg vended in these cities is safe. For other samples bought in these places proved dangerous.

Of the remaining 34 samples, 15 were doctored and diluted whiskeys or whiskeys produced from an alcohol base and artificially colored and flavored; 17 were raw moonshine of varying degrees of rankness; one was poor beer, containing wild yeast; and one was a distilled wine, of poor quality.

Where Samples Were Collected
Samples were collected from these widely scattered cities: Dallas, Tex.; Memphis, Tenn.; Denver, Col.; Norfolk, Va.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cleveland, Chicago, Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco; Los Angeles; New York; Providence, R. I.; Boston and Washington.

They were bought from a wide range of bootleg channels and analyzed without selection. They came from drug stores, bell boys, bootblacks, barbers, porters, milkmen, near-beer saloons and similar channels of the trade, with a few seized in official raids.

The samples were assembled in Washington, and analyzed for The Sun and N. E. A. service by government chemists in government laboratories.

whatever additional poisons or injurious chemical elements may have accumulated through improper and unsanitary fermentation and unsanitary distilling.

"All these elements, even including in one case signs of putrefaction, were present in the samples in this test."

Bad Effects on Body

Aldehydes, high alcohols and volatile oils in moonshine have a directly injurious effect on the circulatory, kidney and nervous systems, according to Reid Hunt, former chief of the division of pharmacology, hygiene laboratory, United States public health service.

Also they result in "an increased liability to contract diseases or to contract them in especially severe form."

Among the ailments which these elements are generally recognizing in the medical profession as aiding and abetting are:

Hardening of the arteries.
Cirrhosis of the liver.
A wide range of digestive disturbances.

Turning food into Beauty—

That's what this girl does—Can you equal her?

The glow of rich, red blood coursing through your veins, the response of muscles resilient with strength, a spring in your step and a light in your eye—

In short, "up and at 'em." That's what perfect health means.

The body draws its supply of health from the food you eat. You can calculate to a nicety the reserve you are building up for your future needs—work or pleasure.

The greatest demand of the body is for an energy food, fuel for the human engine, quickly converted into power.

Equal with this is the necessity for keeping up repair, building the stuff that forms the very fiber and framework of the body.

Bread-and-Milk is the perfect food for both these uses.

It contains the carbohydrates that supply energy for the immediate use of the body and leave a reserve of strength for protection.

It also contains the rebuilding material for muscles and tissues—the bone-building substance.

Bread-and-Milk eaten together form a perfect, balanced food. It supplies the body with energy and carries new materials to the parts in constant need of repair—all with no tax on nerves or digestion.

One meal a day of Bread-and-Milk — and your best gift—good health—your chief asset in the business of living, is insured against the inroads of poor nutrition.

For keen, abounding health, eat one meal each day of Bread-and-Milk.

CITY VS. POLITICIANS

It is time this wrangle over the filling of offices at city hall should be brought to an end. If the good of the service is the only consideration, this will be an easy matter. If the best interests of the city alone are considered, no holdover officer will be displaced except by a more competent man. Of course, if Mayor Brown persists in bringing forward his personal or political friends to displace officials who are competent and efficient, he need not be surprised if the council refuses to confirm them. It seems that under present conditions the mayor and the council should be of one mind in working for the best interests of our city rather than for the personal or political fortunes of any set of individuals. There has been too much pulling and hauling for political advantage. Why not try to pull together for the city in order to see how a period of harmonious effort will work out for the benefit of Lowell?

The people may be fooled part of the time by political maneuvering, but not all of the time. It seems that they are beginning to place the blame for the city hall squabbles where they belong. They can tell between moves that are merely political and those that are intended to benefit the city as a whole. Needless litigation entails expense and unwelcome notoriety. The citizens are tired of that and want no more of it. Business conducted on business principles is what is expected from our city government and anything else will meet popular condemnation.

The interests of the city should outweigh those of political aspirants but unfortunately they don't. The question is asked, "Why not?" and it must be answered in the long run.

IRELAND'S TROUBLES

The chief significance of the capture of Pettigo and Belleek in Ulster is that British forces have been drafted there to protect the border against invasion by the republicans. Pettigo is a town about the size of Billerica but more compact; and Belleek is a still smaller town that has been made famous by its pottery. The activity of the British forces will demonstrate to the republicans that every attempt to strike Ulster will be met, not by Ulster forces alone, but by the power of England. The policy of Collins and Griffith was to avoid a clash with Ulster and by fair treatment, in spite of the persecution of the Sinn Féin in Ulster, to get the northern provinces to remain in the Irish Free State, for the treaty includes Ulster, although she is given the privilege of voting herself out within a month after the government begins to function under the treaty.

It is plain that a republic in the south of Ireland with Ulster maintained as a British stronghold, will preclude the idea of a United Ireland for which Collins, Griffith and other leaders have been working. There can never be an independent Ireland unless there is first a strong and harmonious united Ireland.

In a recent statement the Catholic hierarchy denounced the conditions of disorder due mainly to the action of independent military units and to the persecution of Catholics in Ulster, chiefly in Belfast.

It is hoped that peace will be restored following the election to be held on the 16th instant, but under the plan upon which the election is projected, it will not give the people an opportunity to pass upon the treaty. That will be reserved for a general election under more peaceful conditions and when the voting register shall have been revised so that all the young people of both sexes who come of age since 1918 will have the privilege of voting. That is a right to which they are justly entitled, and no election on the treaty under the old register would be regarded as that or as giving a fair expression of the popular will. That is why the first election under the treaty will provide only for the opening of the provisional parliament under a new personnel.

When Lloyd George divided Ireland into "north" and "south" giving each its parliament, Ulster accepted and the south refused. That explained the present boundary trouble, as while the nine counties of Ulster are theoretically under control of the Ulster parliament, three of them have nationalist majorities and claim the right to be under the control of the Free State government. The treaty provides for a commission to settle any boundary dispute that may arise in case Ulster stays out. This matter, however, can be settled only after the treaty has been adopted and the government has started to function without any of the present troubles.

THE SHOE INDUSTRY

Indications are rapidly pointing toward a genuine revival in the shoe manufacturing business from now on, and Lowell factories ought to get their full share of it. Although not in any sense a "shoe city" like Haverhill and one or two other New England cities, Lowell has more shoe manufacturing concerns in operation than is generally supposed. The local shoe industry is reported to be doing a very successful business, profiting temporarily, perhaps, by the labor unrest in the other larger eastern shoe centers.

Advices from Haverhill indicate that the industry there has its ears close to the ground, awaiting with more than passing interest the progress of wage negotiations in the other shoe cities. Demands for a readjustment of wages are probably coming in Haverhill before long, all signs pointing that way. Shoe manufacturers down the river declare that they are to compete successfully with other shoe centers, like Concord, covered. The situation calls for prompt investigation of restaurants, bakeries, and other lines of business that have to keep fires going continually. The insurance companies that are hard hit by such fires might help in a general investigation that would throw light on past fires and to prevent others of a similar kind.

WE SHOULD BE GRANTED BY THE CONTROLLING UNIONS

Business in the factories appears to be promising for fall and winter needs in footwear. New samples have been taken up by "the trade" with enthusiasm. It is reported, beginning early in August a good many New England shoe factories will be running on practically full time. If the wage problems can be straightened out in the larger shoe manufacturing centers, for the tendency of shoe prices is downward, and the demand will be greater with price concessions all around.

ROADS YOU'D LIKE

If you drive a car, you will be interested in this: When the government finishes up the roads it is helping build, the country will have a network of 180,000 miles of surfaced main highways, connecting Atlantic and Pacific coasts and our northern and southern borders.

To travel over that much road, you would have to drive your car 30 miles an hour, 24 hours a day, for 250 days. Road projects under way in 1921 amounted to nearly 55,000 miles—about 11 times across the continent and back. During the year Uncle Sam and the states built 11,930 miles of federal-aid highways.

We are developing a great civilization here in America, for road building is in all centuries the measure of progress.

The speed with which, compared with former civilizations, we have built a network of good roads through our wilderness and mountains and across our plains, is little short of amazing.

The first state road-building program was started only 101 years ago in Kentucky, when Abraham Lincoln was a boy of 12.

Traffic-on-wheels originated in China and Egypt, where carts were first invented.

Those first carts moved on wheels and axles carved out of one solid piece of stone. It took centuries for man to conceive of the axle being separate from the wheels.

The old Romans, master road builders, had 29 paved highways out of Rome. Over pavements of bricks and mineral cement they drove their lumbering chariots with iron-rimmed wheels.

Jay-riders of those days lounged in read-work baskets mounted on solid wheels about a foot thick.

Think of that when riding in a limousine without shock absorbers!

Man's battle for good roads has been going on for thousands of years, ever since prehistoric man cleared a path through the jungles.

It may be that great highways in the future will be in the air, with flying machines carrying passengers and freight.

That, however, is bound to be a long way off. It is good to dream about it. But, meantime, let's keep our feet on the ground and get behind the good-roads movement stronger than ever. Prosperity and recreation come slowly over bad roads.—N.E.A.

CONGRESS

The republicans in congress have seldom been in a more demoralized condition than at the present time, despite their majority. They are unable to agree upon the main features of the tariff measure but constrained to pass the bill in some form, they are determined to put it through without waiting to discuss its leading defects. As a result it will naturally be a very imperfect measure; it will offer some interests an unfair advantage and will thus place new burdens upon the people. It may in some degree result in improved industrial conditions by removing the suspense; but it is not likely to increase our foreign trade. On the contrary it may result in retaliatory measures that will injure rather than benefit our prospects in the foreign market.

The republicans in congress are equally at sea in regard to the bonus. They are bound to pass the bill, however different it may be from what the service men expect; and it may be put up to the president with the knowledge that it is foredoomed to be vetoed. There are demands for the ship subsidy bill to aid the merchant marine and for various other measures that have been pending; but if the tariff and bonus bill be put through, it will probably be the extent of republican achievement during this session. The party has flagrantly failed in solving the great measures of reconstruction but, on the other hand, the leaders are determined to put across the two main measures in order not to leave themselves open to the charge of having violated their political pledges.

THE MILL CONFLICTS

The efforts of the New Hampshire mills to enforce the 20 cent cut and the 54-hour week have proved a failure which shows the determination of the operatives even after a four months' struggle, to hold out against the change. It is really disconcerting that there is no legal machinery to deal fairly with such conflicts and to enforce industrial peace. Never was the need of some effective method of settling labor disputes more emphatically demonstrated than in the present struggles in progress in the cotton mills of New England. Our legislatures have as yet devised no method of preventing this industrial warfare which is equally ruinous to both sides. The man who finds the solution will deserve well of the people.

EPIDEMIC OF FIRES

It seems that we are having an epidemic of serious fires. Every place of defective construction seems to be bursting into flame and with such secrecy that a dangerous fire is usually well underway before it is discovered. The situation calls for prompt investigation of restaurants, bakeries, and other lines of business that have to keep fires going continually. The insurance companies that are hard hit by such fires might help in a general investigation that would throw light on past fires and to prevent others of a similar kind.

We supposed that the trustees of the public library, not the mayor nor anybody else, were the parties authorized to purchase all books for the use of the citizens in general. Is that history of the World War purchased by the mayor to be a fixture at the executive office or is it to be turned over to the public library?

We do not see how Harvard can afford to discriminate against any class or race. We supposed that scholarship and character were the sole tests for admission to its halls of learning.

The opening of the mills in Manchester did not break the back of the strike, as was expected by the mill men. The way to settle such strikes lies in calling the strike leaders into conference and reach a compromise that will be accepted.

Sure to Get Lost

A party of westerners traveling by motor to Pawtucket were not sure of the route and stopped to inquire of an Indian. "Ugh," said the redman, "trail till you get to hill (pointing to mountain). Then take south fork. No take north fork. No made no dam difference. Get lost anyhow."

A Thought

God draws a cloud across each gleaming morn;
It is because all nobler things are born

Each soul redeemed from sin and death must know
His Calvary.—ANON.

Scrambled Whole Family

When his father married his wife's mother at Belfast, Wis., William Giesel's wife became his stepmother. Now Mrs. Giesel's husband is her father, and her mother-in-law is her mother-in-law. Get some of the women-folk to diagram this for you, no man can figure out relationships.

Today's Word

Today's word is imminent. It's pronounced im-iminent, with accent on the first syllable. It means—threatening to occur immediately. It comes from Latin "imminere," to project. It's used like this—"Socialists from other countries who have gone to Russia to protest against the treatment they had heard that leaders of their faith were being subjected to there, are reported to be in imminent danger of lynching themselves."

Not a Moral Fault

The sweetest young thing had been greatly affected by the revival service and perhaps also by the good looks of the officiating clergyman. One afternoon she called for a little personal help. The minister was just visiting and unfortunately was one of the elderly deacons. "I am afraid I have one dreadful fault," said the S.Y.T. presently. "Every time I pass a mirror, I think of my beauty." The deacon looked her over with disconcerting gaze. "That's not a moral fault," he said, "that's merely an error in judgment."

They Were Surprised

Into the restaurant she came with the air of a princess, a truly regal figure clad in brown from top to toe, and looking as if she had just visited a Parisian modiste and a beauty parlor—a perfectly groomed, handsome woman. There was an air of refinement about her. She looked expectantly turned out in the simple, deceptively way. She wore little exclamations of admiration and envy from other diners near. A waitress approached. Every one hushed to listen to the beautiful creature speak. In a high pitched voice she ordered: "Bring me an onion and a morsel of butter and she ate it with a spoon!"

Divorce Was Granted

Moses Diggs, an old Alabama dackey, had been arrested for having more than one wife, the last woman being the complainant. He happened to be well known locally and considered an orderly character. "How many wives have you had?" demanded the examining judge. "Six, you honah," was the reply. "Why couldn't you get on with them?" "Well, sah, de fust two spilled de white folks' cuds den dey washed 'em," de negro said. "De fust de fust was just natcherally lazy, an' de fift—'I'll tell you, Judge, de fift, she—'Incompatibility.' 'No, yo' honah,' said de negro slowly. 'It wasn't nothing 'I like dat. Yo' jest couldn't git on with her nohow. It was somethin' else.'—Harper's Magazine.

Every Morning

Every day is a fresh beginning.
Every morn is the world made new;
You, who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here is a beautiful hope for you—
A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over.
Tasks are done and tears are shed.
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover.
Yesterday's wounds which smarted and bled
Are healed with the healing which
Night has shed.

Yesterday now is a part of forever.
Bound up in a sheet, which God holds tight,
With glad days and sad days, and bad days, which never Shall visit us more with their bloom and light.
Their future of sunshine or sorrowful night.

Let them go, since we cannot relieve them.
Cannot undo, and cannot atone;
God in His mercy receive and forgive them;
Only the new days are our own;
Today is ours and today alone.

Every day is a fresh beginning.
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain,
And in spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
As the morning forecast and possible pain,
Take heart with the day and begin again.

—SUSAN COOLIDGE.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

I wonder how many people know that there are two pages of rather interesting reading in the front of the local telephone directories? Way down at the bottom of the last column on the second page of the reading matter is a paragraph that will be read once and maybe twice. Let me quote it for you: Its caption is "Excessive Use of Party Lines" and it runs as follows: "Satisfactory service on party lines depends largely upon the willingness of the joint users to co-operate with one another in their demand for the service. The company, accordingly, respectfully requests party line subscribers to limit their conversations to five minutes when others wish to use the lines and to give immediate right of way in case of emergency calls." It is a good little paragraph to tuck up in front of your telephone. If you are on a party line. The minutes do slip by you know.

"On with the dance" seems to be the popular slogan of the present generation. From my own observation about town, I think a great many people would rather dance than eat or sleep. Since the reopening of the ball-rooms at Lakeview and Merrimack parks for the current season, the attendance thus far has exceeded that of any previous years for the similar periods of time. I notice the latter part of the night, about Merrimack square, especially on a Saturday night, waiting for electric car transportation to the popular resorts. The car space is so limited and the demand so great, that I often wonder that there is no one injured. Accident, however, is always there. People evidently forget the slogan "safety first" in their anxiety to get a seat or even standing room, and in their haste, they disregard the comfort of others, showing a degree of boorishness that is very annoying.

Naturally with the coming of June, a young man or a young girl's fancy turns to thoughts of graduation. I am speaking now of high school graduation which is the culmination of a very strenuous year for their students. During the time the student has not perhaps, been conscious of the paternal guidance, the motherly love and the brotherly or sisterly comradeship of the members of the faculty. It is to the teachers, that the graduates owe a debt of gratitude for their success in gaining the coveted diploma; to these men and women who directed the stumbling footsteps, soothed the aching hearts, and otherwise aided in the quest for knowledge, truth and character. High school pupils who are financially able to further their education should gladly so, confident that with hard work the opportunity to climb higher will surely come.

The industrial employment survey bulletin, published monthly by the U. S. Department of Labor, contains a graphic chart showing the trend of employment nationally. It further shows a comparison in employment in 14 manufacturing industries obtained from payrolls of 1428 concerns usually employing 501 or more employees in 65 leading cities for 1921 in monthly totals. Statistics show that the months of January and April were the highest with respect to employment, 1,600,000 operatives being recorded, while the lowest month was December with 1,400,000. In the comment on items of general interest as to putting employment and unemployment possibilities and developments, the bulletin contains an optimistic opinion for industrial improvement for the state of Massachusetts. Concerning Lowell, it says: "Aside from the depression in the textile industries, there is a general feeling of optimism as to the future of the city. Unemployment, prevalent principally in textiles. A number of dwelling houses are now under construction."

PRAISE GIRL WHO SHOT AND KILLED ANDERSON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—Letters of sympathy and praise for her courage and good marksmanship were received last night by Miss Peggy Marie Deal, as she lay on a hospital bed fighting a battle for life from a wound received when she attempted to take her own life, after she had shot and killed Frank Warren Anderson, department store warehouse director, in a hotel. One letter was signed by Kansas City doctor and his wife and another by a local nurse. "Our sympathy is yours" read one of the letters. "The world needs more girls who have the courage and ability to shoot straight. We regret, however, that you shot yourself. There is plenty of time yet, and the flowers bloom the same as ever."

FOUND LEAD CASKET

S. M. Bright, construction engineer in charge of the building of the Hildreth building, which are being made for the S. S. Kresge Co., yesterday uncovered a telephone book, a business directory, a number of newspapers and a parchment concealed in a lead casket in the cornerstone of the building, which was laid in 1822. The casket bore the date of Aug. 23, 1822, and contained copies of the Lowell Weekly Sun, the Lowell Daily Courier, the Evening Mail and Vox Populi. Most interesting of all these contents, however, is a signed document by Thomas Newhall, dated Aug. 13, 1821, which tells that the land to be occupied by the Hildreth building was once the property of the Locks and Canals. The ownership is then intelligently traced to Ebenezer Anderson, whose name it bore at the present time.

FLAG FOR AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The June meeting of the American Legion auxiliary was held last night in Memorial hall. Mrs. Margaret Hewitt presided and a feature of the evening was the presentation to the auxiliary of a beautiful silk flag by the Edith Prescott Wolcott auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans. The presentation was made by Mrs. Edith Prescott. The meeting adjourned with salute to the flag. The next meeting will be held July 10.

BOARD OF HEALTH

At its weekly meeting last night after dinner, the board of health granted a license to Thomas Boucher to conduct a slaughterhouse on the street. Dr. Foster H. Smith of the Contagious hospital conferred with the board at some length and monthly health reports and regulations for supplies were approved.

WOMEN BAND TO PURGE SCREEN

MRS. CHARLES GILMORE

"Clean pictures by clean people" is the slogan of the women of Sacramento, Calif., who have organized to elevate motion picture taste. Their method is simply to advertise and boost pictures meeting the approval of their pre-viewing committee and to say nothing about the others. Their verdict is practically the final word with exhibitors as well as public.

The plan has worked admirably here," Mrs. Charles Gilmore, president of the organization, declares. "I believe it would be equally effective in other cities."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The second rank staff of the Valley-Middlesex lodge, Knights of Pythias, and a delegation of members visited Chelsea Monday night to confer the rank of Esquire for Mystic lodge of that place. The work was done in excellent form, and the visitors were royally entertained by their hosts. This in the third time this staff has been called upon to work this rank in other cities than its own. Its previous visits having been made to William (Gule) lodge of Lawrence and to Lowell lodge of this city.

Lowell Case is Unusual

elevator operator and freight handler. His work required him to operate an elevator from the basement to the upper floor of the employer's building, a bakery, and to assist in carrying freight to and from the elevator, and to do this both inside and outside the building. The temperature of the room called the bakery, on the upper floor, which room the employee had to enter and work in while handling freight, was very warm, about 90 degrees. On the lower floor where the elevator opened into an alley, in which he also had to work, the temperature was that of outdoors. In allowing Weatherhead's claim for compensation, Commissioner Dickinson says:

"On the date of the injury, the weather was cold, the snow falling, and a sharp wind blowing in the alley. When the employee was working in the bakery, the high temperature and the heat caused him to perspire. When he went from the bakery on this day, by the elevator, to the basement and alley, the change from the high temperature to the cold and wind was very penetrating and chilling to his body."

"It is found that the exposure to this chilling and cold on this day, after leaving the bakery, was of a special severity and for a somewhat unusual length of time. The heat and chilling to which the employee was exposed, the periods of time, and the clothing he wore, were required and made necessary by the conditions of his work. It is found that from this exposure, occasioned and required by his work, a condition of pneumonia was aroused and contracted, and the employee suffered a total incapacity thereby."

"The insurer contended that the disability as received, if admitted that its causes and consequences were as found, did not constitute as a matter of law, a personal injury arising out of and in the course of the claimant's employment. It is ruled and found, that the disability was the result of special and unusual exposure to such conditions, peculiar to the claimant's employment, and required by the employment; and that such exposure and results constitute an injury arising out of and in the course of the employment."

Accordingly the commissioner has awarded to Mr. Weatherhead compensation in the amount of $10 per week for the entire period of his disability, amounting to $105.71 at the time of the hearing, and to continue until he is able to return to work. HOYT.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem NOWHERE

There are moments when I sicken of complexities that thicken
In this much sophisticated day and age;
When the aims of life seem futile and my efforts all inutile.
Like the running of a squirrel in a cage.
Oh it's then I want to go where there's no rushing to and fro, where Trains and trolleys do not roar, nor autos whiz;
Where there's no one that I owe, where it's the Other Side of Nowhere,
Though I haven't any inkling where that is!

There are times when work is zestless and the soul of me is restless
For a change to something else than I have got;
When I want to—how I want to!—go some place I've never gone to,
Where I'll find—it doesn't really matter what!
I would beat it, I would blow where life's a different kind of show, where
There's a new and novel note that I can strike;
So I crave to up and go where it's the Other Side of Nowhere,
Though I do not know at all what it is like!

Yet I fancy folks who grow where it's the Other Side of Nowhere
Are illogically wishing they could be
Where I find myself at present; and they'd doubtless find it pleasant
If they might—on some occasions—swap with me;
For the Other Man's existence seems entrancing—at a distance—
Though perhaps I wouldn't like it, after trial,
But right now I want to go where it's the Other Side of Nowhere
And just stick around and try it for awhile!

Unemployed Veterans Walk Home

OTTAWA, June 6.—"General" Frank Riley and his army of unemployed veterans, 267 strong, started late last night to march back to Toronto. They refused the Dominion government's offer of a train. Premier King and Minister of Labor Murdock addressed the men before they left. Both Mr. King and Mr. Murdock asked Riley for the names and regimental numbers of his men, promising that their grievances would be at once investigated and relief afforded where such was indicated.

WOMAN SPEAKER WITH FLYING SQUADRON

Rev. Norma C. Brown, of Bloomington, Illinois, the only woman speaker of the Flying Squadron, was the youngest chaplain the Illinois state senate ever had and the only woman who has ever filled that position. She will be heard in this city on the third day of the visit of the Flying Squadron in its action-wide campaign. In the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Monday afternoon and evening, June 19th, at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The Flying Squadron is divided into three groups, each spending a day in this city. Miss Brown travels with the third. Each speaker is heard both afternoon and evening in each city to which they go.

Miss Brown, though the youngest member of the combination, is reported to be a most interesting and charming speaker.

THE REGULATION OF CHILD LABOR

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Congressman Rogers saw President Harding yesterday and urged him to stand behind a constitutional amendment concerning regulation of child labor. Mr. Rogers believes as the two attempts by congress to pass such laws have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, a constitutional amendment will be necessary. He has introduced such a bill and has asked President Harding to present the desirability of such an amendment to congress in a special message. The president assured Mr. Rogers he would give sympathetic attention to his request but did not make known whether or not he would adopt the suggestion.

RICHARDS.

LOWELL POST OF AMERICAN LEGION

Plans for taking over the "McManus" picnic were discussed at some length at last night's meeting of the American Legion held in Memorial hall. W. C. MacBrayne, who managed the affair last year as head of Battery B, was present and it was at his suggestion that the meeting took action on the matter. A committee will be appointed to arrange for the details.

M. H. Harrington, a member of the local committee, announced that the sum of $1200.00 had been collected on Daisy Day which was held on May 27. The meeting also looked with favor upon forwarding a request to the police and fire departments asking that veterans in these two departments be permitted to wear their insignia on their uniforms at all times. It was brought out that this practice is carried on in several large cities of the country.

DANCING PARTY

The last dancing party of the year by the staff of the Lowell High School Review will be held next Friday evening and it is anticipated that the students will get in line for this closing social event in large numbers. The expense incidental to publishing The Review will be partly defrayed, at least, by the proceeds of this affair. An announcement was made yesterday by Chief Editor Brendan Leahy that tickets may be obtained from staff members at all times until Friday evening, and that no tickets will be sold at the door.

PLAN OXFORD

YALE DEBATE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 6.—A debate between Oxford and Yale universities to take place in New Haven probably next September, is being planned, the Yale Debating association announced today. The debate will be on a subject of international interest to be chosen by Yale.

The debate was suggested by Oxford. It is proposed that the English manner be followed, whereby one American and two Englishmen would compose one team and two Americans and one Englishman the other. The decision then would be passed upon individual merits.

The association has also decided to organize an intercollegiate debating league next fall, which would comprise Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Bates, and Cornell, with the possibility of Wesleyan, Brown and Columbia as charter members.

COAKLEY FAILS TO APPEAR

Not Present to Oppose Disbarment in Federal Court of Appeals

Atty. Curtis Moves That Coakley's Name Be Stricken From Rolls

BOSTON, June 6.—Daniel H. Coakley, who offered no defense to disbarment proceedings in the state supreme court, alleging that the matter had been prejudged and that he could not get a fair trial, did not appear today to oppose disbarment in the federal court of appeals where three judges, Justices George H. Bingham and Geo. F. Morris of New Hampshire and Justice Charles E. Johnson of Maine were sitting. Assistant District Attorney Charles P. Curtis, Jr., made a formal motion that Coakley's name be stricken from the rolls and that he be disbarred, but the court instructed Mr. Curtis to notify Mr. Coakley that he might come in at any time today. Meanwhile the court announced that the entire memorandum, including the records of the state court, would be taken under advisement and a decision given later.

Afterward Mr. Curtis informed the court that when he had endeavored to reach Mr. Coakley by telephone, he was told he was out of town. A clerk in Mr. Coakley's office, Mr. Curtis asserted, said that when Mr. Coakley went away he was under the impression that the federal authorities were fully aware he did not intend to appear. Mr. Coakley is expected to return tomorrow and will be asked to get in touch with the federal district attorney's office.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Formal presentation of the soldiers' bonus bill to the senate on Thursday is the present plan of Chairman McCumber of the senate finance committee. The bill will be accompanied by the usual printed report and in addition, Senator McCumber expects to address the senate briefly on the subject.

The measure will be sent to the senate tomorrow to remain until an agreement to call it up is reached. There appears to be little pressure for early consideration of the bill and some republican leaders are of the opinion that it will not be taken up until after the administration tariff bill is out of the way. The tariff measure will have to be sidetracked this month for several important appropriation bills and conference reports and there is strong opposition on the majority side to additional delay in the consideration of that measure.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 6.—John Day, wealthy Oklahoma City lawyer and oil man, will relate to a special army board appointed by Secretary Weeks, the circumstances under which he killed Lieut. Col. Beck accidentally when he was riding alone and found Beck attempting to assault Mrs. Day. Mrs. Day, on the stand, corroborated her husband's story. The slaying occurred on the night of April 4 last.

TO ENLARGE SCOPE OF BANKERS' COMMITTEE

PARIS, June 6. (By the Associated Press).—The desirability of enlarging the scope of the International Bankers' committee which has been considering a foreign loan for Germany, was unofficially discussed today by the members of the reparations commission. Their decision on the matter is expected to be formulated in a reply to the bankers, who recently asked for information as to the credit basis for the proposed loan.

The French member of the reparations commission, is known to have been instructed by Premier Poincaré to formulate a reply to the bankers, who recently asked for information as to the credit basis for the proposed loan.

After making a transatlantic voyage as a stowaway and as a stevedore, the princess was ordered admitted unconditionally. Secretary Davis said today he had found that she had complied with and was admissible under the general immigration laws.

Admission of the princess, who says she was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1881, ends more than a year of wandering over Europe in an effort to reach safety and the United States. Upon her arrival in this country she told immigration authorities that she was followed as she made her way across Europe on foot, by Russian agents seeking papers of the Russian royalist regime which had been entrusted to her by her husband, Prince Ivan Tschernitschew, just before he was executed by Bolshevik troops over the gate of his estate near New Novergorod. She also explained she was seeking her eight-year-old son, who she said, was sent by her husband early in the Bolshevik revolution to a place of safety.

County officials who went out in search of Irwin when he failed to return home last night, telephoned that they had found him at the home of H. F. Wood, nine miles from here, in a weak condition, with most of his clothing torn from him.

Several weeks ago the former pastor told a story of having been eloped and kidnapped by a man named Elfers, of the church, he formerly conducted, were indicted on a charge of arson and their preliminary hearing will come up Thursday. He maintained the terms were reasonable for two days at the church and for his first abduction.

In England, the adoption of children cannot legally be secured.

There is a city ordinance, passed in 1916, which gives to the mayor the power of appointing an assistant superintendent of the state aid contingent upon confirmation by the council.

The commissioner admits, however, that there is a question to be raised and while in conversation today with Stephen C. Garrity, commander of Lowell post of the American Legion, said that he would submit the question of her status to the attorney general for decision.

At noon, Commander Garrity forwarded the following letter to Mr. Dana.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—"Times do change," Secretary of Agriculture Wallace remarked today as he climbed out of the horse-drawn carriage, which by custom conveys the agricultural official on official missions and entered the White House executive office for the regular cabinet meeting. His small grandson, aged seven, rode with him. "That is the first time this boy ever rode behind a horse," he said.

After making a transatlantic voyage as a stowaway and as a stevedore, the princess was ordered admitted unconditionally. Secretary Davis said today he had found that she had complied with and was admissible under the general immigration laws.

Admission of the princess, who says she was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1881, ends more than a year of wandering over Europe in an effort to reach safety and the United States. Upon her arrival in this country she told immigration authorities that she was followed as she made her way across Europe on foot, by Russian agents seeking papers of the Russian royalist regime which had been entrusted to her by her husband, Prince Ivan Tschernitschew, just before he was executed by Bolshevik troops over the gate of his estate near New Novergorod. She also explained she was seeking her eight-year-old son, who she said, was sent by her husband early in the Bolshevik revolution to a place of safety.

In England, the adoption of children cannot legally be secured.

There is a city ordinance, passed in 1916, which gives to the mayor the power of appointing an assistant superintendent of the state aid contingent upon confirmation by the council.

The commissioner admits, however, that there is a question to be raised and while in conversation today with Stephen C. Garrity, commander of Lowell post of the American Legion, said that he would submit the question of her status to the attorney general for decision.

At noon, Commander Garrity forwarded the following letter to Mr. Dana.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—"Times do change," Secretary of Agriculture Wallace remarked today as he climbed out of the horse-drawn carriage, which by custom conveys the agricultural official on official missions and entered the White House executive office for the regular cabinet meeting. His small grandson, aged seven, rode with him. "That is the first time this boy ever rode behind a horse," he said.

Lowell, Mass., June 6.

Payson Dana, Civil Service Commissioner, State House, Boston, Mass.

As per our telephone conversation in regard to a ruling by you that the assistant superintendent of state aid is a service position.

Might I ask through your office for an opinion from the attorney general's office on your ruling, for the reason that our old city charter, which provides that the mayor nominate and the commission confirm.

Under the present charter, no mention is made of the position of assistant superintendent of state aid and I feel that under these conditions, that our city ordinance still prevails, under which the mayor nominates and the city council to be confirmed.

This same question was raised in 1919.

Respectfully yours,
STEPHEN C. GARRITY.

City Solicitor Tierney

City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney was in telephone communication with Commissioner Dana this forenoon and brought to the latter's attention the ordinance passed in 1910. Mr. Dana, however, stated that in his belief Mrs. McCrann is a subordinate officer and as such is taken care of in section 33 of the present city charter, which provides that administrative heads of departments, such as William A. Arnold, shall have the power to employ and appoint and to suspend and discharge subordinate officers and employees, subject to civil service rules and regulations.

"It is a close question," said Mr. Tierney, "whether Mrs. McCrann is a subordinate or a co-ordinate officer, and upon this question hinges the entire controversy."

If Mrs. McCrann is a subordinate officer, she would be placed under civil service, the mayor has no control whatsoever over her position. On the other hand, however, should she be a co-ordinate officer, for an integral part of the city government, she would be subject to removal by a nomination and confirmation by the city council of any other person.

The information that Mrs. McCrann had been classified under civil service came into the city last night and was confirmed today by Commissioner Dana.

It is a salutary victory for Mrs. McCrann in her fight to hold her position. The mayor's nomination of Mrs. McCrann. The latter's name was ready for action on the part of the city council last Thursday night, but was held up by the action of Chadwick and McCrann, favored referring the matter to the city solicitor. The latter ruled that the mayor has the right to nominate and appoint and to suspend and discharge subordinate officers and employees, subject to civil service rules and regulations.

Apparently this ruling settled the matter and it was expected that a vote would be taken next Thursday evening, on Mrs. McCrann's name. The news that Mrs. McCrann has been classified under civil service, however, leaves the matter still in doubt and it now is believed that the matter will remain in abeyance until an opinion is received from the attorney general.

Following the conversation today between the city solicitor and the civil service commissioner, Mr. Tierney said that he would address a letter to Mr. Dana at once, setting forth in detail and discussing further the question of whether the incumbent of the position is a subordinate or a co-ordinate officer. The solicitor did not feel ready to give a verbal opinion on the matter.

Mrs. McCrann Interviewed

"I have had numerous good friends," said Mrs. McCrann when interviewed, "and they have offered me kinds of assistance in this affair. I have been approached by members of the Grand Army who were planning to make a formal protest to the mayor. It was very flattering, I assure you, but their deeds are forgotten. Their ranks are thinning and their votes are fewer so would not think of subjecting them to the embarrassment of a refusal."

The widows of Civil War veterans and Spanish war veterans have come to me with tears in their eyes and begged of me to make some effort to help them. I am sure that the members of the Grand Army and the Spanish war veterans have also pleaded with me to try and continue in office.

"Some of the officers of the American Legion have long since cast envious eyes on the state aid office. They tried to order it from the outside, then from the inside. When they found that we were open to suggestions but not to commands they became puffed up. They have tried to interfere and harass us since Jan. 1. They have threatened that they would have us removed. Be it known now to the fair city of Lowell that we have neither stolen nor bribed and that we have no fear of decisions according to our best knowledge and belief according to law, not sentiment and an investigation is not only approved by us but invited."

"Any office where public funds are dispensed is unpopular and naturally the incumbents are unpopular. But for every cent of expense money that is paid out of this office the taxpayer pays higher rent and higher taxes. The disbursement of $100,000 in a year is no small job and should be protected by efficiency and experience."

Involved Point of Law

Counsel for the defense did not put the defendant upon the stand. He contended that the case was not one of accounting and could not be interpreted as such under the statute. The court said that the statute was framed to take care of men who attempted to "man" women, but that its reading covered such a wide scope that he was inclined to make a finding of guilty, but preferred to look up the law at greater length.

Daniel Ford was sentenced to the house of correction for three months after having been found guilty of an independent action. He was arraigned both on this charge and one of drunkenness to which he pleaded guilty. Regarding the more serious charge, he said that he had no knowledge of it. Ford, who lives in Concord, was arrested at the South Common yesterday by Officer John J. Mahan after two women had complained of Ford's action while Ford was in the women's rest room.

Marty Helped Himself

Martin Vassoli pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness. After a sister had testified that Martin had taken $25 from her yesterday, the case was continued to Saturday for investigation. The sister also said that this was not Martin's first offense in the matter of helping himself to the family treasure. She watch while at a christening. Marty stoutly denied both charges of larceny.

John Perry pleaded guilty to a statutory charge. He was held in $500 until Friday. The court said that there were a number of other boys whom he was anxious to bring into court in connection with the case.

Greenland was discovered by an Icelandic boat about 177.

Attacked Wife With Knife

Right of the events which led up to the attack and the struggle she made to save her life. After Patrolman Daniel P. Brennan recounted the story of his battle with Fortuna in a small room in the house at 222 Suffolk street before he was able to subdue him, and of Fortuna's admission of the assault, the defendant was heard.

She admitted a charge of drunkenness placed against him, but pleaded not guilty to one of assault and battery. The sight of the bleeding arm and the officer's testimony apparently decided the court, for a direct six months' sentence to the house of correction was meted out.

Neighbors notified the ambulance of the woman's condition and were about to phone a doctor when the ambulance arrived. Mrs. Brennan leaped upon him, wrestled away the knife and threw his man to the floor and "kuffed" him. Most of the fight had been knocked out of Fortuna by this time and he was taken to the station and booked. On the stand Patrolman Brennan said that Fortuna admitted the assault upon his wife.

Stimulated by the alcohol, Fortuna resisted arrest, but Brennan leaped upon him, wrestled away the knife and threw his man to the floor and "kuffed" him. Case Is Continued

A case evidently growing out of labor troubles at the Hamilton mills was tried, but the disposition of it was continued to Saturday by the court, who said that he wanted to move fully investigate the statutes governing the charges. The case was on in which Annie Genotte of Tremont street and John Coyle brought in for accounting her. The charge against Coyle was one of disorderly conduct in accounting a person of the opposite sex.

According to the story told by the complainant, who is employed in the Hamilton mills, she was walking to work about 9:15 o'clock on the morning of May 12. While going up Central street she met a fellow employee, Thomas E. Manville, and the pair continued on their way until they came to the corner of Jackson and Central streets. The woman alleged that Coyle then stepped up to Manville and said that he had a good thing to give Manville a beating. The woman said that she told Coyle to go along and mind his own business. Following this the woman claims that Coyle called her an abusive name and walked up the street. She said that she followed Coyle for quite a distance hoping that she might meet an officer. Such was not the case and upon Manville's statement that he knew the man well, the woman returned to her work.

ADDITIONAL PRECAUTIONS TO BE TAKEN RELATIVE TO FIRES

Due to the frequency of fires during the last few weeks, many of them starting in restaurants, the fire protection committee of the Lowell chamber of commerce is to take steps immediately to enroll the assistance of the New England Insurance Exchange, with a view to taking additional precautions, through the medium of more drastic regulations, possibly, against further conflagrations of this sort. Chief Edward J. Saunders of the fire department, has expressed his willingness to co-operate.

The decision resulting in this action was reached at a special meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, called yesterday by members of the board as a sequel to the fire in Market street Sunday night. It is said that if this fire, which is reported to have started in a restaurant, had been discovered a little later, great damage to the downtown section might have resulted. A high wind, also, would have added to the damage. Chief Saunders was called into the conference. A few of the directors thought that some action should be taken on account of these fires which have been of such frequent occurrence recently, considering the fact that many of them have started in restaurants. Chief Saunders stated that he is willing to co-operate in any way in making the regulations on restaurants more strict.

It was brought out that a number of small restaurants are conducted in dangerous locations, many of them non-fireproof and without adequate protection. Although all restaurants are under strict inspection at all times by the board of health and fire departments, in some cases it is hard to keep them up to the standard, and they are let fall back into their previous dangerous condition.

The New England Insurance Exchange has always expressed a willingness to come here at any time and talk over fire protection and business matters. Therefore, it was voted that the matter be placed in the hands of the chamber fire protection committee, of which Chief Saunders is a member and Fred C. Church, Jr., chairman. This committee will make arrangements immediately for a meeting, at which representatives of the insurance exchange will be present and talk matters over.

In regard to the meeting in the Colonial theatre, Thursday evening, at which ex-Senator Cartwright of California is to be the principal speaker, the board of directors voted to issue special invitations to the mayor and members of the council.

WATSON FLAYS ALLIED ENVOYS ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP HOUSE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 5.—An attempt to blow up the home of an alleged strike-breaker, followed by a fire, declared by the authorities to have been of incendiary origin, which threatened a mill barn, marked the opening this morning of the 20th week of the textile mill strike in the Pawtuxet valley.

Explosives, placed beside the home of James Hughes at Crompton village, blew out the windows and tore away some of the cladding. The authorities assert that the explosion was directed against Robert Burke, a boarder at the house, who is employed by the Crompton Co. No one was injured.

Police and neighbors discovered, less than an hour afterward, flames licking up the side of the barn on the estate of the superintendent of the Natick mills of B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., at Natick. The blaze was extinguished before much damage was done. Kerosene-soaked rugs were said to have been found in a crevice between the barn and the office.

With police and deputy sheriffs and national guardsmen on hand the families of four strikers from the Pontiac mill of the B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., were evicted from company houses in Pontiac village today. A fifth family, ordered out, moved voluntarily.

A committee of strikers in hired trucks moved away the furniture after it had been removed from the houses and left on the sidewalk. Places would be found for the families, members of the committee said.

Senator Watson asserted that Sir Auckland Geddes in his address in California last March in which he was quoted as urging use of British ships for carrying American commerce as one means of aiding trade between the United States and Great Britain had "gone entirely outside the bounds of propriety." The Indiana senator, one of the administration leaders, charged that there was a foreign propaganda against the pending tariff bill and declared that he denied the right of the representatives of any foreign government to come to this country "and instruct us with reference to the policy of our government."

Labor Unions Not Exempt From Prosecution Under Anti-Trust Law

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Labor organizations are not exempt from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law, the supreme court today announced. The court delivered such an opinion in the celebrated Coronado coal case, one of the most important pieces of labor litigation ever to come before the nation's highest tribunal.

The court held that labor organizations can be held liable for property and other damages caused by the acts of members during strikes. The case was brought by the United Mine Workers of America against the Coronado and other coal companies, arising out of the Arkansas strikes of 1914.

With regard to the United Mine Workers of America, the court found that the international organization and its officers did not order the strike, ratify it, and that they should have been made parties to the suit.

Chief Justice Taft in delivering the opinion, stated that there had been no misjoinder of parties in the suit as brought. He discussed at length the question of the liability of the national and international unions if the unions were responsible for what was done, pointing out that in common law unincorporated organizations could be sued as individuals but from necessity of existing conditions, it was utterly impossible of doing justice otherwise than by holding labor unions suable.

The lower federal courts had awarded the Coronado and eight other coal companies treble damages amounting to $800,000 against the United Mine Workers of America and District Union No. 21. The damages were held to have resulted from the acts of union miners, on the ground that the acts were a part of a conspiracy to restrain interstate shipments of coal.

Report Parents of Victim
Plan to Bring Civil Suit
Against Ward for $50,000

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 6.—The Westchester county grand jury held over from May was expected today to begin its delving into the killing of Clarence Peters and the story of a blackmail gang given by Walter S. Ward as his reason for shooting the ex-sailor.

Citizens here today were discussing with avid interest the report that Walter S. Ward was preparing to amplify his story of the shooting.

The parents of Peters, who failed to appear here yesterday, were reported to be planning to institute a civil suit against Walter S. Ward for $50,000 damages, no matter what the outcome of the grand jury investigation might be.

Mrs. Beryl Ward, wife of Walter S. Ward, was expected to be the first witness today.

At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, 224 Ludlum street. The couple will make their home in this city.

Enright-Smith

A very pretty wedding took place this morning when Miss Helen Clare Smith, charming daughter of Mrs. Etta Smith of 36 Sargent street and Mr. Harold Aloysius Enright, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Enright of 227 School street, were united in marriage at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Francis Keenan. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of duchess satin and chivalry lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Helen Smith of Lawrence, a cousin of the bride, wore a gown of duchess satin and chivalry lace. Frederick Enright, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. An elaborate musical program, under the direction of Organist Michael J. Johnson was given. Miss Frances Tighe sang "Gloria." The wedding breakfast was served in a most impressive manner. At the elevation of the host, the bride gave in a splendid voice the "Hail Mary" and "O Salutaris." Following the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's mother where a reception was held and a wedding breakfast served. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Enright left on a honeymoon trip to Maine and New Hampshire. Upon their return they will reside at 33 Sargent street. No cards.

DENIAL BY INVENTOR

Brennan Says Reported Success of His Helicopter Unfounded

LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press) Louis Brennan, in an interview with the Evening News today, said reports appearing in other English newspapers regarding the success of the inventor's helicopter were unfounded.

"The simple truth is that the machine has not been out of its shed," he was quoted as saying.

The Early Report

LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press) A successful helicopter, dream of aviation experimenters for decades, has been devised by Louis Brennan, noted inventor, with the aid of the British government, according to the Daily Mail Gazette, which declares a new era in aviation has begun. Mr. Brennan is the inventor of the Brennan torpedo and the gyroscopic motor.

It is claimed the new helicopter can rise from land on a small roof, hover stationary in the air, rise to a height of 2000 feet, and fly 50 miles an hour.

Brennan's machine, with the greatest possible safeguards for secrecy, was built in a huge airship shed at the Royal Aircraft establishment in South Farnborough, Hants.

"It is the most important and far-reaching accomplishment yet attained in the history of flying," declares the Gazette.

Construction of the machine was begun more than a year ago behind heavily barred doors, and each of the limited number of assistants was sworn to secrecy.

Requirements which the air ministry had formulated and which were fulfilled by the helicopter, says the newspaper, were that the machine must rise to a height of 2000 feet under its own power, carrying a pilot and fuel for one hour's flight, hover stationary for 30 minutes in a wind of 20 miles an hour, land safely in any wind up to 20 miles an hour without horizontal motion and with the engine cut off, and maintain a horizontal flight at an altitude of 2000 feet, at a speed not less than 50 miles an hour.

"Thus," says the Gazette, "the problems that have baffled hundreds of minds have been solved."

AN ESCAPED PRISONER FORMER LOWELL MAN HOSPITAL IN BELFAST UNDER FIRE

Lowell Man Arrested Shortly After Leaving the House of Correction
Stanislas St. Onge Passed Away at His Home in Rhode Island

Belfast, June 6.—Belfast was mystified last night by long continued firing near the Mater Infirmary. Bullets struck the wall of the hospital and six windows were pierced. Consternation reigned among the patients, and those who were able left their beds, taking refuge on the floor. The police combed the district for the gunman, but without result.

The official report on the incident said shots were fired at a jail adjoining the hospital, and the guard, believing that institution was being attacked, replied with machine guns, some of the bullets striking the hospital.

Griffith to Return to London
LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press) Arthur Griffith and his colleagues on the Irish delegation which has been discussing the Irish situation with the British cabinet, will leave Dublin tonight. It is announced, for a resumption of their negotiations with Colonial Secretary Churchill tomorrow.

Mr. Griffith is expected to bring with him the revised constitution, and tomorrow the Irish representatives will meet Mr. Churchill for a preliminary discussion of the document.

Premier Lloyd George will arrive from Wales on Thursday. He will confer with Secretary Churchill and if satisfactory progress can be reported there will be a formal conference of the Irish and British representatives Friday morning in Downing street.

In official circles here the outlook for the continuation of the conference is regarded as distinctly favorable, since the ground was somewhat cleared by the answers the Irish representatives gave last Friday to the definite questions propounded by the British.

Mr. St. Onge was 63 years of age. He was an exceptionally capable business man. Although away from Lowell for over 25 years, he never forgot his Lowell friends, for two or three times a year, he came here to spend a few days to renew acquaintances. He will be remembered by many of the old French-speaking people of this city as well as by many who were in business in Lowell 30 years ago. He is survived by six children. His funeral will take place tomorrow.

Simply bring the escaped prisoner charge.
It is expected in the future that the department of correction, which has jurisdiction in such cases, will ask for more severe penalties.

Edmund J. Cheney, special state police officer, connected with the department of correction, was in the city and expected to prosecute the case had not Kane entered a plea of guilty.

On November 3 of last year, Kane was found guilty of larceny when he appeared in district court here. He was sentenced to serve time in the Massachusetts State Reformatory. He appealed the sentence and in superior court was sent to the house of correction for a term of six months.

Shortly after this, he was transferred to the prison camp and hospital in Tewksbury, where short time prisoners are sometimes sent to aid in the work in the hospital and camp. At the camp, labor is confined to tilling the soil and doing work incident with the maintenance of the hospital and camp. The place is known as an honor camp.

On January 4, he effected an escape from the camp, but was captured two days later in Boston and returned to the East Cambridge institution to finish out the remainder of his sentence. At the time of his escape from the camp, he had in his possession some state clothing which he later disposed of in Lawrence. It was possible to bring a charge of larceny against him for this act, but the authorities decided not to do this, but to simply bring the escaped prisoner charge.

It is expected in the future that the department of correction, which has jurisdiction in such cases, will ask for more severe penalties.

HELPING THE STRIKERS

Business Men Give Liberally to "Dollar" Day Drive for Strikers

Contributions in the "Dollar" day drive for the benefit of the strikers of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. and the Hay State Cotton Corporation are coming in fast, according to reports given out at strike headquarters this morning. The business men of the city are responding cheerfully and liberally, and although one dollar contributions are being sought from each merchant and friend of the labor movement, many are donating larger amounts.

The B. H. Harrison Co. has sent in its check for $25, while $10 checks have been received from Saunders' Public Market, Inc., and Flynn's Market. John J. Healey of Mitchell, the Tallor has sent in his check for $5. All the other contributions received so far were for one and two dollars. J. E. Lyle, the Central street jeweler, made his contribution in the form of a pearl necklace and box valued at $7.50. He donated the article to John Hanley this morning, saying he believed a substantial sum could be derived from the necklace. Later Mr. Hanley announced that the necklace would be disposed of in a drawing contest.

Reports were received at strike headquarters today to the effect that the Hootmills started up three weaving departments yesterday, after being shut down for several months. It said this means an increase of about 600 looms in operation. Good reports are also being received from the Tremont & Suffolk, where it is said preparations are being made for the starting up of 400 extra looms.

A double celebration of interest to Lowell people took place in Worcester yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Pruneau of Worcester celebrated their golden wedding, while Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Chenette of 784 Merrimack street, this city, also participated in the event in observance of their 25th marriage anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Chenette, who are the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pruneau, it had been planned to make the event a triple celebration which would have also included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pruneau, the former, a son of the aged couple, who were also married twenty-five years ago yesterday, but owing to the illness of the Boston woman, it was impossible to carry out the program.

The celebration opened with a solemn high mass of thanksgiving at St. Anthony's church, the celebrant being Rev. Joseph E. Perreault of the Holy Name of Jesus church, who was assisted by Rev. Louis D. Grenier of Notre Dame church, as deacon and Rev. Louis Doyon, A.C. president of Assumption college, as sub-deacon. During the ceremony the two couples renewed their marriage vows. Mr. and Mrs. Pruneau being attended by Mr. and Mrs. Chenette, while the latter had as witnesses, their son and daughter, Edmond and Alphonse Chenette. The church service was followed by a family dinner served at Hotel Warren, and in the evening the two couples were tendered a reception in Dodge hall, the affair being attended by about 300 people. Mr. and Mrs. Pruneau were presented a purse of gold, while Mr. and Mrs. Chenette were remembered with a silver service.

Mr. and Mrs. Chenette have been residents of this city for several years, coming here from Worcester, where at one time Mr. Chenette was an accountant at the headquarters of the Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amérique. Upon coming to this city he secured employment as a reporter with L'Étoile, the French daily, and later opened a real estate office. He is connected with numerous local, fraternal and social organizations, with Mrs. Chenette is also identified with a number of societies.

Lowell's Share of State Tax Only Reduced By $8,320—City Must Contribute $290,160

(Special to The Sun)
ROSTON, June 6.—The tax assessed by the state on the city of Lowell this year is $290,160, a reduction of $8,320 from the figure of last year. This announcement, which was made today by the legislative committee on ways and means, will be a disappointment to city officials and to taxpayers generally, who hoped for a larger reduction in view of the fact that the total state tax has been reduced from 14 millions to 12 millions.

It appears, however, that a new basis of apportionment has been established this year under which Lowell is compelled to pay a larger percentage of the total tax than formerly and therefore does not get the full benefit of the two million dollars reduction.

The figures on other places in this vicinity are: this year, Dracut, $8160, last, $8400; Billerica—this, $15,280, last, $17,920; Tewksbury—this, $8240, last, $10,560; Tyngsboro—this, $2160, last, $2520; Westford—this, $2940, last, $10,220; Chelmsford—this, $14,010, last, $15,960.

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—(By the Associated Press).—Mrs. Lillian Russell Moore, who died early today at her home in this city, had been ill for several weeks following an accident while on ship board, when she was returning to this country from Europe. It was believed, however, last Saturday that she had passed the crisis and that she would recover. She was conscious until the end, which came at 2:20 o'clock.

The accident which, Dr. Schiller, one of her physicians, said was the primary cause of her illness and death, occurred when she was violently thrown on the ship during a storm. The effects of the injury were not immediately serious, nevertheless, and although she steadily failed in health after her arrival home, even those most closely associated with her were not aware of the decline.

U. S. Commissioner Explains Plan to End Strike in Law- rence Address

Provides for Workers to Re- turn as Sign of Good Faith Under 10 P. C. Wage Cut

Just as Soon as Market Con- ditions Improve Wages Will Be Increased Again

LAWRENCE, June 6.—That he had reached a tentative agreement with some textile mill heads in New England to accept his proposition for settling the textile strike, was the declaration made here today by Robert M. McWade, United States conciliation commissioner, who addressed the meeting of the strategy board of the United Textile Workers of America.

Mr. McWade stated that his proposition provided that the workers return to the mills as a sign of good faith under a 10-per cent cut with the provision that as soon as market conditions improve sufficiently, wages would be increased again.

Mr. McWade declared that this had been agreed to tentatively by some of the mills, provided one mill could be found to lead the way. He stated that he hoped to see the situation all over New England cleared up within two weeks.

He criticized Lawrence strikers for refusing a compromise offer recently made by Patchogue-Plymouth mill officials.

The United Textile Workers announced today that they would fight the injunction proceedings started yesterday by the Patchogue-Plymouth mills in seeking to restrain picketing. They will engage an attorney, they also intend, Organizer Francis J. Gorman stated, to swear out warrants for the arrests of two employees of the mill whom they allege assaulted pickets.

It is we, rather than the mill, who should be seeking the injunction," said Organizer Gorman.

Quinn Coal Company's Plant Swept By Flames That Called Out City's Entire Fire Fighting Equipment

RUINS OF QUINN COAL CO.'S PROPERTY, SHOWING MOTOR, AROUND WHICH FIRE IS BELIEVED TO HAVE ORIGINATED

Fire that made tremendous headway swept through the plant of the John P. Quinn Co. in Dix street last night, destroyed wagon, cement and wood-cutting sheds, burned up 16 coal carts and tons of coke and 200 cords of slash wood for an estimated loss of between $30,000 and $40,000.

For the second time within nine days the entire fire fighting force of the city was called out by a general alarm and it was the fourth fire within that time that has necessitated extra alarms. Beginning with the Stott block fire a week ago Sunday, the department has fought big fires at the Prentiss storehouse, the old Tyler block and the Quinn plant in rapid succession. The aggregate loss on the four will reach $150,000.

Many Buildings Threatened

Last night's fire was the most spectacular that the city has experienced for years. The flames shot up hundreds of feet and cast a ruddy glow in the sky that could be seen for miles. Frame buildings in the neighborhood and the former plant of the Federal Shoe Co. were constantly threatened by clouds of fast traveling sparks and while a number of roof flames sprang up on blocks in Gorham street, volunteers and firemen snuffed them out with extinguishers. The Quinn Coal Co. also shuttled the Quinn property on the Gorham street end, but as the fire worked away from that direction the former plant was not seriously threatened, although it was necessary to keep its buildings thoroughly wet.

It was just 9:40 o'clock when the fire was discovered and an alarm was sent in over Box 47 at Gorham and Moore streets. Evidently it had been burning within buildings for some time previous, for the first round of the box had not been sounded before the flames were leaping skyward. It is believed that the fire started in the motor room of the wood-cutting shed.

WAGE CUT FOR 400,000 SHOPMEN ORDERED BY R.R. LABOR BOARD

Award Announced Over Strong Protests of Three Labor Representatives on Board— Made "With No Consideration for Human Needs," Says Minority—Cut Totals $60,000,000

CHICAGO, June 6.—(By the Associated Press).—Over the strong protest of the three labor representatives on the United States Railroad Labor board, a new wage cut of seven cents an hour for railway shop mechanics and nine cents for freight car men, cutting 400,000 shopmen approximately $60,000,000 a year, was ordered by the board today.

The new wage reduction brought an estimated added saving of $59,669,347 annually to the railroads, following on

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Why Flappers Fail!

AGNES DOHONEY

BY AGNES DOHONEY
(Selected as Convention Girl by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in a contest from which all flapper types were barred and only "home types" admitted.)
They fool themselves! And persons who fool themselves are bound to fail.
That is the outstanding reason for the failure of flappers.
To really succeed, sincerity is necessary. And sincerity covers a long list of relationships; sincerity toward life, toward work, toward home, toward love, toward purpose and all the worthwhile things.

If we interpret the flapper in the generally accepted sense, can we credit her with sincerity? Can one fool oneself and be sincere? Scarcely! Sincerity will hide anything for a time, whether it be a stulticase or a woman. But it is an ever long, honest, constant wear shows the rough boards from which the stulticase is built; and just so, when the shell wears thin human shamming is revealed.

An outstanding accusation against the flapper has been that she is the follower of the most recent fad. If this be true she must be also charged with inability to weigh values, lack of originality, lack of individuality and with general superficiality.
If affection and superficiality are to dominate, how can anything except ultimate failure be expected?

HOTEL MEN RELEASED

Hayes Rules Dry Agents
Had No Right to Break Down Door of Napoli

BOSTON, June 5.—United States Commissioner Hayes in discharging Gaetano Spinelli and Giulio Labadini, proprietors of the Hotel Napoli, who were arrested in a raid by dry agents three weeks ago, criticized the actions of the prohibition enforcement officers.
"Doors should be broken down by officers only after they have announced their business and demanded that a door be opened and have been refused," he said. "The action of James E. Roberts, prohibition director in 'smashing in that door in the cellar was an abuse of the search warrant. He was a trespasser all right on this ground," the commissioner declared.
Arthur J. Davis, head of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, was said to have been present "for the purpose of watching the humiliation of the defendants."

Ruptured Women

If You Have a Large Navel Rupture or Have Suffered Rupture After An Operation, Try My Plan Free.

Special Corset Attachment for Large, Fleishy Women, Gives Neat, Trim Figure, Holds Rupture Securely.

Mrs. G. C. Reid, representing Wm. S. Rice, Inc., Adams, N. Y., has special corset attachment that holds any rupture no matter how large. Even if the abdomen is very fleshy, it holds any rupture, with ease, comfort and security. Hundreds of women in Lowell and vicinity are in need of just such a support as Mrs. Reid is able to supply. Experience has shown that many women are unable to wear a corset because of large Navel Ruptures or those following operations. The special surgical corset and rupture support combined is designed to care for all such conditions.

Doubtless every woman who has been compelled to wear an ordinary truss or abdominal support knows the gouging, cutting and chafing caused by narrow bands. The weight of the abdomen must be carried by the band around the back and the pressure is sometimes very great, causing untold suffering. The special broad supporting corset attachment does away with all cutting, chafing and binding. It is light, flexible, durable, cool and fits the figure like a glove. It gives you a sense of absolute security and protection.

Mrs. Reid will be at the Richardson Hotel, Lowell, Mass., afternoon and evening of June 7, all day and evening of June 8, to demonstrate this marvelous support free to all women. She wants to fit it to you and prove to you that it is a great blessing to all rupture afflicted women. No matter what you have tried now is your opportunity to find out just what you require, and get the benefit of a free personal application, by a competent lady expert.

Why be burdened with rupture and suffer the continual annoyance of wearing trusses if you don't have to? Why not use the Rice Method and prove to your entire satisfaction what results are possible in your case? Thousands have been able to throw away their trusses after a brief application of the Rice Method and there are thousands who are still suffering the tortures of rupture because they know not where to turn for relief. Mrs. Reid is in Lowell, to give all such women the benefit of her experience and knowledge of hernia and invites you to her private apartments at the Richardson Hotel. Do not fail to get this free demonstration.

Remember, Mrs. Reid will be in Lowell only two days, then your opportunity will be gone so by all means don't fail to call and see this wonderful demonstration.

Daily from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 evenings.

PHARMACISTS WILL MEET IN SWAMPSCOTT

The forty-first annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association will be held in the New Ocean House, Swampscott, Wednesday and Thursday, June 14 and 15. The members of this association are all registered pharmacists and in a large number of cases graduates of the College of Pharmacy and are well fitted to carry on the business of serving the public in this profession. They are at their posts early in the morning and late in the evening, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. Over two million prescriptions are compounded each year by these men and it is a rare occurrence where an error is made. This is exclusive of where liquors are prescribed by physicians. Carefulness is the motto of the pharmacist.

This association has on its roll of membership over eighty-five per cent of the pharmacists of the state. In every city and town in the state are one or more. At the annual convention, they come together and discuss matters of interest to the public and themselves and work for legislation that will attain that end by approving good and opposing bad legislation. At the convention, addresses will be made by Dean Bradley of the College of Pharmacy and Charles W. Bourson of the same college faculty, Major George W. Burroughs, who had charge of the distribution of Red Cross supplies in Europe during the world war, Mr. James P. Finneran of the executive committee of the National Association of Retail Druggists, and Mr. J. Fred Wright, chairman of the legislative committee.

Mr. Elmer C. Potter, prohibition director for Massachusetts, will address the convention at 11 o'clock on Thursday morning, June 15. Mr. William H. Glover of Lawrence will preside at all the sessions of the convention. All pharmacists are invited to the meetings.

THE NESMITH FUND CASE IN COURT

The city of Lowell has 30 days in which to file its answer to information placed before the clerk of the supreme court yesterday, by the Thomas Nesmith heirs relative to the disappearance of the Nesmith-Worthy Poor fund from the city books.

There was no court session yesterday and City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney was informed by the clerk that he might take advantage of the 30-day period of grace if he so desired. When the city's answer is filed the court will determine how the fund of $25,000 shall be restored—whether it shall go back to the heirs or whether the city will continue to hold it in trust.

It is believed that City Solicitor Tierney strongly is in favor of having the fund rehabilitated and returned to the Nesmith heirs, rather than to allow the city to continue to hold it in trust.

HONOR FOR LOWELL BOY AT HOLY CROSS

More honors have come to Albert L. Bourgeois, son of Mrs. Fabiola Bourgeois of 40 Arlington street, who will graduate from Holy Cross college June 21. The young man will be "first orator" at the commencement exercises, an honor which was bestowed upon him for excellence in scholarship.

Mr. Bourgeois was born in this city. He graduated from the Bartlett school in 1914 and from the Lowell high school in 1918. He was lieutenant colonel of the high school regiment. He entered Holy Cross without having taken Latin or Greek, but he managed to overcome these obstacles and achieve excellent ranks in both studies. He proposes to enter the Harvard law school in the fall, following the completion of his brother, Raymond P. Bourgeois, who was recently admitted to the bar.

An Easy Way For Thin People to Put on Flesh and Gain Weight

Strong, Straightforward Advice to Thin, Underdeveloped Men and Women

If you are thin, scrawny and undeveloped, if your face is peaked and your cheeks and neck exhibit unrightfully hollows, it's almost certain that your nervous system is at the bottom of the trouble. You can eat three, yes four, substantial meals a day, but as long as your stomach has an insufficient supply of nerve force this food you eat will pass out of the body with little if any benefit.

In order to assimilate properly the nourishing food you eat and convert it into healthy tissue, and fat, the nerves that control the process of digestion and assimilation must be put in first-class shape and until that is done you might just as well quit trying to put on flesh. Your system is starving for something that will turn the food you eat into healthy stuff, there flesh and it can only be done in one way—by correcting faulty nervous digestion.

Thin, nervous, run-down people, however, with impoverished blood and half starved looks are hailing with delight a quick and certain maker of solid flesh called EVANS' TRIPLE PHOSPHATES that is unequalled for repairing faulty digestion and correcting nervous digestive troubles. In fact, the makers of Evans' Triple Phosphates guarantee that one month's treatment will increase your weight by several pounds and within ten days make you feel like a new being, full of ambition, vigor and a desire to accomplish things. Fred Howard, and leading druggists everywhere have agreed to supply Evans' Triple Phosphates gratuitously to do just what is claimed for it or money refunded.

Caution: While Evans' Triple Phosphates accomplishes wonders in men, your digestive troubles and as a general nerve tonic, it should not be taken by anyone who objects to a few additional pounds of solid stay-there flesh.—Adv.

RADIO CALLS CHIEFS TO ANNUAL GATHERING

BY PAUL F. GODLEY

America's Foremost Radio Authority

Chiefs of police throughout this country and Canada are being invited to attend the convention of their international association by radio.

August Vollmer, head of the organization, has worked out a scheme to reach each member by wireless, whether he has a set or not.

There are hundreds of small villages and towns, and even a great many cities whose police headquarters are not equipped with receiving equipment. But it is doubtful if there is any town of any size without a radio amateur who is interested in relaying wireless messages.

So Chief Vollmer called in the "miniature men of radio" the American Radio Relay league. The league has promised to deliver the message and soon had its organization of 25,000 radio amateurs preparing for the transmission.

The convention opens in San Francisco on June 13. The success of their previous enterprises staged by the relay league augurs well for their success.

"Some time between 10 p. m. and midnight your local standard time," reads the official announcement to the amateurs, "some station will break loose with the message of invitation. The call letters of this station and the time of starting will not be made known. The message will come as a surprise right out of a clear sky. It will be broadcast once at 10 words a minute, each word being sent twice. Once a station broadcasts a message, the station will cease sending. That will be the start of the message."

Great stress was laid upon the necessity for accuracy in making copy, and for the actual delivery.

All radio relay amateurs were requested to co-operate.

If they respond as they have done in the past, every chief attending the convention will have come invited by the radio.

PLAN BIG RADIO SHOW IN CHICAGO

That the Chicago Radio show to be held in the Coliseum in October, will substantiate its sub-title, (International and annual), is proven by the recent dispatch from Paris: Wilbur Williams, who has been touring Europe in the interest of the exposition, recently acquired a promise from Signor Marconi that he would include the Chicago dates in his calendar and would undoubtedly be present for an entire day during the exposition period.

Madame Eleanor Duse, the Italian tragedienne, who will make a tour of the United States in the fall, was also visited by Mr. Williams at her villa in Venice and he found her an ardent radio enthusiast. She has a gorgeous sun-parlor fitted with a powerful receiving instrument, enabling her to enjoy the operatic entertainment rendered by the La Scala singers. Mr. Williams reports that the foreign manufacturers are keenly interested in the rapid developments in the American radio market, and will return to America with an interesting list of prospective exhibitors.

The foreign consuls located in Chicago are showing a keen interest in the forthcoming event, especially those of Great Britain, France, Italy and Switzerland, and it is expected that the manufacturers of these countries will have an important representation of their products.

Radio Popular? Miniatures, Freaks, New Fashions Prove It Is

Miniatures, freaks, new fashions! Radio is getting its quota, just as other popular innovations have had theirs.

There is still a question as to who has the smallest radio set. And while the discussion rages, more "smallest radio sets" crop up.

Among the latest is the miniature made by Allen Turner, Los Angeles newspaper artist. It covers the tip of his finger.

Turner says he has heard concerts and lectures with his "radio cricket," broadcast from as far as 50 miles off.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Those who have Rudolph Valentino as one of their screen favorites will be glad to know that he was yesterday found not guilty of a bigamy charge which has been pending against him for the past two weeks.

They will be glad to know that he is appearing this week at the Merrimack theatre with Gloria Swanson in Elmer Glyn's story, "Beyond the Rocks."

The theme tells of a young girl (Glyn Swanson), the daughter of a rich British army captain, who makes a great sacrifice that her father might enjoy the comforts of life in his declining years. One day she is out riding in a small boat, which becomes unmanageable and which overturns. She is thrown overboard and is rescued by a young English nobleman (Valentino), who chances to be passing in his yacht. She is brought safely to her father, but has fallen in love with her rescuer.

Her romantic dreams are shattered when she is prevailed upon by her two half-sisters to marry a man who has made his pile in the Horatio Alger method of from store clerk to owner and millionaire. She goes through the marriage that her father might be well cared for.

Following the ceremony she and her husband go to the Alps for a rest. There she meets her former hero. She goes on a mountain climb with friends, falls over a precipice, but is again rescued by the nobleman, who is really in one Lord Brackendale.

The married couple return to Paris, where the father meets them, and as the husband is coming to a bad end, the girl is forced to leave the father and daughter take a walk alone. They meet Lord Brackendale again. He agrees to part, but a short time later he is thrown into a house party of a common friend.

Another girl appears in the story at the hotel where Lord Brackendale is staying. The girl, who is really the daughter of the father, is forced to leave the father and daughter take a walk alone. They meet Lord Brackendale again. He agrees to part, but a short time later he is thrown into a house party of a common friend.

The Strand continues to live up to its reputation for clean, wholesome photoplays. The offering for the first three days of the week is but a continuance of the unusually fine programs which have delighted the many patrons of this popular theatre in the past. The current line of two high class productions, Helene Chadwick in "The Glorious Fool" supported by Richard Dix, and Frank Mayo in "Across the Dead Line," are the universal attractions.

"Across the Dead Line," in "The Glorious Fool," the intangible Miss Chadwick portrays the role of a young probationer, Jack Brown, in a hospital, to whom fate has assigned the duty of nursing Billy Grant (Richard Dix), who had been seriously injured trying to operate an electric car while under the influence of liquor, to which he had become a violent addict. When the attending physician despaired of saving Billy's distracted life, he asked Jane to do him a favor. Jane promises and is overwhelmed with surprise when the favor asked is marriage. Thinking Billy's delirious consent only to find that her patient had made the request in all seriousness. Did Jane keep her promise? See "The Glorious Fool" picture.

Frank Mayo, always popular in Lowell, adds to his laurels in a thrilling northwestern picture, "Across the Dead Line." The title is suggestive of the story which is replete with action throughout. The ver-comes forth with his ring radio receiver. Everything mounted on a brass ring—except the telephone receiver.

But Sidney Kasinof of New York, says his little "safety razor set" is most practicable of all miniatures. Besides the receiving apparatus, he has a buzzer connection and battery to test the crystal. He has heard WJZ at Newark distinctly.

Among the freaks displayed recently at the radio show in New York, Miss Winifred Lookhart Willis had three. On her finger was a ring crystal receiving set. Between two fingers she held a cigarette radio set, and from her neck hung a necklace set.

The cigarette set contained complete receiving apparatus inside and reaching out from one end were two stretches of wire—the antenna—like an ant's feelers.

Fashion also claims part in the development of radio toward general popularity. The radio matter isn't new. Miss Willis has produced the radio necklace.

From Los Angeles comes Miss Pamela Rains with her "radio phonolite," a combination lamp and radio set. It's shaped like a parlor lamp, can be covered over for use as an electric light, or with cover up can be manipulated for receiving broadcast concerts.

PHILLIPS SURRENDERS

WASHINGTON, June 6.—John Lewis Phillips, reputed state chairman for Georgia, for whose arrest a warrant was issued last Saturday on complaint of the department of justice, alleging conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with a war contract for the disposal of surplus lumber, surrendered to a deputy United States marshal on his arrival here yesterday from Philadelphia. He was immediately arraigned before United States Commissioner Litt, who issued the warrant, waived examination and released in $25,000 bail for action of the grand jury.

For Your Baby—

What is more desirable than vigorous health?

MRS. Sparr is an enthusiast about Borden's Eagle Brand Milk because she has brought up her little son Villier on it. And he is a splendid vigorous boy. "... his constant good health has made him full of vim and pep," she says. Villier is fifteen months old and has already begun to learn his ABC's. For keen mental development usually accompanies good health in children.

No mother need experiment with her baby's food. Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for generations. There are no doubts about its purity or its splendid results. Many thousands of grateful mothers have testified to its benefits. And doctors recommend it for weak and puny babies—for it is so easily digested.

Borden Eagle Brand Milk is not a prepared food. It is only pure milk combined with pure sugar—the natural food, if for any reason mother's milk fails. Your grocer has it. Always pure and uniform.

MRS. GRACE GILMAN

"I suffered from kidney complaint and I blame the drinking water for the trouble. Awful pains through the small of my back had me nearly past going to operate an electric car while I was so nervous at times I could fly to pieces. Specks floated before my eyes and confused me. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and after using them I was entirely cured of kidney disorder."

H. W. HILLIARD
City Fireman, 45 Branch St., says:

"I suffered a long time with my kidneys. I had a dull constant ache through the small of my back all the time. I had sharp pains catch me and I felt as though I could hardly keep up. My kidneys acted too frequently and I used Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's is the name of the trouble."

The above statement was given October 29, 1914, and on November 14, 1921, Mr. Hilliard added: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and they always help me."

MRS. L. LORRAIN
225 B St., says:

"My kidneys became weak and I suffered awfully. My back was so weak I didn't have the strength to walk and I had severe pains across my kidneys and dizzy headaches came over me. My kidneys didn't act right and I was almost helpless. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and three boxes cured me of all signs of the trouble."

Mrs. Lorrain gave the above statement May 4, 1917, and on November 14, 1921, she added: "Doan's Kidney Pills have freed me of kidney trouble and I am enjoying fine health."

UPHOLD ANGLO-IRISH TREATY

Report Griffith and Collins Have Agreed to Observe Full Terms of Pact

Will Mean the Throwing of Eamon de Valera Overboard

LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The Daily Mail's political correspondent says British government circles believe Griffith and Collins have agreed to observe the full terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty, even though this means throwing Eamon de Valera overboard. The Dublin correspondent of the same newspaper reports the impression that the Collins-de Valera pact will be abandoned after the elections.

Surprise is expressed here at Collins and De Valera's joint appeal for the support of the electors for the coalition panel in the elections and the withdrawal of many independent candidates, but will encourage the extremists forcibly to prevent the election of those ignoring the appeal.

The Times reports that the provisional Free State government is meeting the food shortage by sanctioning the chartering of motor boats in which to import food from Glasgow.

Quinn Plant Swept by Flames

A second alarm was pulled at 9:45, followed seven minutes later by a third, 22 Horses Taken Out

The firemen had their work cut out for them the moment they arrived, for at that time the flames were rapidly spreading down the yard, sweeping the wooden sheds toward the stable. Twenty-two horses in the stable were taken to safety by volunteers, including Redmond Gray, Daniel Ryan, John Sheehan and Dick Donnelly.

The heat thrown off by the fire was staggering and while the firemen carried their hose right up into the teeth of the blaze, tongues of flame drove them back yard by yard. With the arrival of additional apparatus the first line fighters were reinforced by water being poured from fire hydrants in the vicinity and gradually the effect of so many streams was apparent.

Although there is space between the wood shed and the wagon shed, the fire was so hot in that opening that it was not possible to pull out the 16 coal carts. Firemen attempted to chop their way into the shed from Dix street, but before their axes could cut through the heavy timbers the flames had leaped across the opening and the firemen lost out in their battle.

Once the water began to drown out the flames a heavy ball of smoke settled over the yard, blotting out the picture. So dense was it that even the electric torches of the firemen could not penetrate it for more than a few feet and the work of clearing up was made extremely difficult.

Loss Will Reach $40,000

Martin Quinn, one of the proprietors of the company, said that his loss will approximate $40,000. Between 1200 and 1400 bags of cement, 200 cords of slab wood, about 200 tons of coke and two cars of hay were in the path of the flames and while there may be some salvage, it is mostly a total loss. Mr. Quinn had no idea how the fire started, but expressed the belief that it had its origin in the motor room of the wood-cutting shed. Persons who were in the neighborhood at the time the first alarm was sounded said that the fire was burning fiercely at that time. It spread rapidly because everything in its path was highly inflammable.

Gorham, Dix and Ellsworth streets were literally packed with spectators but scores of police under the direction of Superintendent Atkinson, Lieut. Ryan and Sergt. Frawley kept adequate fire lines near the buildings. Lines of hose that crossed Gorham street at Carter street, held up all street car traffic for some time, but the Billerica line was opened up again at 11 o'clock.

Scene of the Fire

The scene of the fire today was a blackened mass of charred timbers, twisted metal supports and piles of burned and water-soaked wood and coke. The long row of wagons in the shed that backs up to Dix street were burned there they stood, even to the shafts. To the casual observer it is complete devastation, but undoubtedly there is some salvage possible in the ruins of the three sheds.

By the light of the day it was able to see just how close the fire came to the Federal shoe Co. building, the walls of which were scorched. The southern end of the stable was burned out, but the fire was checked before it destroyed the whole of that building. One incident of the fire that was last night of last night because of the lack of light and the darkness risk of getting in too close proximity to the flames, was the heavy work of the firemen in breaking into the Federal building to turn on the water curtain. This curtain, falling four stories practically saved that structure by greatly reducing the heat that continuously threatened it.

Rev. N. W. Matthews was sitting upon the veranda of his home in Ellsworth street when the fire alarm sounded. He had but to step around the corner and as he approached the Quinn plant flames were shooting high into the air. Rev. Mr. Matthews said today that the fire must have had a long headstart on the firemen and that it seemed to him as if the flames reached so high as to be caught and fanned by currents of air that were not noticeable on the ground.

Conspicuous today amid the ruins is the blackened motor that supplied the power for wood cutting, around which the fire is supposed to have had its origin.

Insurance was carried by F. C. Church.

NOTES OF THE FIRE

If it hadn't been for the police at last night's fire, the firemen would have been so hemmed in by the crowd that they could not do anything. Sgt. Atkinson arrived on the scene after the crowd had been pretty well marshaled by the officers, many of whom were in plain clothes. In the case of that kind they go to work when called on.

At one point a crowd entered an alley to get a view of the blaze and was blocking the passage used by the firemen when Sergt. Cawley got a broom and holding it at both ends used it effectively to push back the surging crowd.

Police Officer O'Connell was at the Butler school when the alarm sounded and looking toward the wood yard, he saw the blaze leading into the air. He ran to the scene and as he arrived, the Gorham street apparatus was laying its hose, and directly Chief Saunders and District Chief Sullivan were on the ground.

Dr. Thomas F. Carroll was the scene early. He goes to all fires except when engaged with his patients.

City Physician M. A. Tighe was also at the fire ready to render assistance in case of accident.

Some of the side streets were blocked with autos so that no vehicle could pass through. This was the condition at Chambers street where with a row of autos on either side the space left in the middle was too narrow to allow passage through by another auto.

A train at the Fletcher street crossing delayed the apparatus.

Wage Cut Ordered

of the board to set "a just and reasonable" wage.

"The tendency of this decision is to 'win' the propaganda of the railroad, and consequently condemn such statements as the employees have been able to bring to public attention," the minority opinion said. It was signed by Albert O. Wharton, W. L. McMenemen and Albert Phillips, the labor representatives.

Supervisory forces of the railway shops were not decreased. After the consideration the decision said, it was felt that the duties and responsibilities of such forces warranted maintenance of the present rates.

The reduction for mechanics averaged a little more than 8 per cent, all machinists, hammersmiths, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, electrical workers, carmen (except freight car men) molders, cupola tenders and coremakers and the regular and helper apprentices receiving a cut of seven cents an hour. Freight car men, commonly known as "car knockers" and the object of some of the heaviest assaults by the roads in their battle for lower wages, were cut nine cents.

The larger cut was ordered for the "car knockers" because the board said it believed their work did not require the same skilled service as other branches of car men's work.

More Reductions Coming

"Car cleaners, who now received an average of $2.15 a day, were cut five cents an hour, or 19 cents a day.

The mechanics, whose daily rate now averaged $6.11 for electrical workers to $6.23 for blacksmiths, will lose 50 cents a day under the new decision, bringing their daily wage to approximately $5.70.

The board's latest decision, which is to be followed shortly by reductions for railway clerks, telegraphers and all other classes of railway employees, except the train service men, was brief and offered no explanation of how the new rates were arrived at.

For "Some Recognized Standard"

Suggestion for "some recognized standard" to be worked out by the board and used as a basis for future wage adjustments, was contained in the minority report, which was several times longer than the majority decision. The labor members felt, they said, that the board "should initiate a study which shall determine the amount necessary to meet some recognized standard and that it must use its results as a basis for its decisions and that it must, through those decisions, transmit this information to the public."

The decision, the minority report continued, tended "to substantiate the position of the railroad that wages need not be established with reference to the needs of the family," contending that a minimum wage for the shop crafts should be 50c. an hour, which would mean a rate of 87 cents for skilled mechanics.

"The savings to the railroads far exceed anything justified by the savings to the public in reduced rates," the dissenters said, adding that payroll analyses during the last six months of 1921 had been made including layoffs, at the annual rate of $1,300,000,000 "in strong contrast to the increasing prosperity of the roads."

"The majority failed to carry out the function for which the board was created," continues the minority report. "Such decisions giving no explanation to the public of the process by which the majority arrive at the rates established, give the public an impression that these rates are not founded upon a careful consideration of facts."

REV. RALPH GILLAM

REVISITS LOWELL

Rev. Ralph Gillam, formerly pastor of the First Congregational church, dropped into the Sun office yesterday to make a friendly call. Mr. Gillam succeeded Dr. Warfield as pastor of the first church and during his stay in Lowell he was a frequent contributor to the Sun. While on a visit to the west he wrote a series of letters to The Sun describing his tour and the conditions of the country as he saw them, giving also graphic descriptions of the beautiful California scenery and the delicious climate of that state. For some years Mr. Gillam has been connected with the Atlanta, Ga. Theological seminary as professor of evangelism and English literature. He served overseas during the war as chaplain in the Second division and traveled in Germany, Belgium and France. During the past few weeks he has been in New Hampshire promoting extension work and arranging for evangelistic meetings to be held at some future date. In connection with his work at Atlanta, Rev. Mr. Gillam is quite active in the chamber of commerce and other movements for city improvements. One of the papers speaking of his work said that in several of the places in which he served as pastor before coming to Atlanta, the membership of the churches was doubtless, while all the churches of the community were attracted in the home. It has been a leader in the Epworth league and other societies organized for religious effort. He is favorably remembered in Lowell as he made many warm friends during his stay here. He is gifted with a pleasing personality and is an eloquent preacher, who impresses his congregations with his zeal for the promotion of every good work.

It rains, on the average, every three days in New York city.

Picture Story of Escape from Maniac's Trap

A madman forced Mrs. John Jenkins and Miss Kathryn McManan at a pistol-point to go with him to his shack near Omaha, Neb. The women are shown here at the edge of a pit inside the shack into which the madman threw them after shackling them with a heavy chain. One of the women later attracted the attention of H. E. Boyd. When Boyd came to their rescue, the madman pressed a revolver against his side and succeeded in shooting him. While the madman was digging a grave in which he intended to bury Boyd, Boyd pried himself loose and, with the chains still about him, jumped through a window and telephoned for aid. Sheriff Michael Clark and deputies are shown at the shack.

If You're Hunting a Job
In the Movies, Read This

ELEANOR BOARDMAN AND WILLIAM HAINES WERE PICKED FROM 1000 APPLICANTS FOR MOVIE JOBS BY ROBERT MCINTYRE, GOLDWYN CASTING DIRECTOR.

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, June 6.—You want a job in the movies. If you don't, somebody you know does. The one question asked thousands of times in fan mail is "What are my chances of getting into the movies?" This question is usually prefaced with a description of the applicant.

Robert B. McIntyre, casting director for Goldwyn, recently looked over 1000 applicants. He chose two, Eleanor Boardman of New York and William Haines of Stanton, Va. Miss Boardman is 24, five feet six, has gray eyes and brown hair and weighs 125 pounds. Few successful screen actresses are taller than Miss Boardman. Height is the most important factor. Face, figure, carriage and that vague attribute known as "personality" are largely dependent on height. Many feminine applicants were more possessing in the flesh than Miss Boardman. But they didn't screen well. Her first screen tests were unfavorable. A make-up expert thought the fault was in her make-up. He attended to that and on her second test she gained McIntyre's approval. Well, what did these fortunate young people gain? Stardom? No. They are now working as extras and going to school for six months. At the end of that time they may be given small parts in pictures.

Let those who consider the stage a higher form of art than the screen attend a showing of "Sonny," Richard Barthelmess' latest release. The stage play met with indifferent success. The film is Barthelmess' greatest vehicle and probably will be recorded as one of the great pictures of the year. The stage was no limited in its scope of action that the story was padded with song and dance numbers to make it entertaining. The film is a far more graphic presentation. Barthelmess' sincerity and sense of sentimental balance make the picture a dramatic masterpiece.

Agnes Ayres, like Gloria Swanson, won stardom through the merit of her acting. Now, like Gloria Swanson, she is making a style mannequin of herself. Thus she detracts from the quality that won her favor. In "The Circle" she costume change for every scene and in most cases looks as if she were preparing to attend a dog fight.

At Studio Kestrel
J. J. Gansler has started to film "Rich Men's Wives." Claire Windsor has named her new wire-haired terrier "Radio." Says its hair acts as antenna. It took more than ten weeks to film the flood scene for "The Town That God Forgot." Marilyn Miller says she may appear in one picture with Jack Pickford; to whom she is engaged. Maurice Tourneur, now directing the filming of "The Christian," played 400 roles on the French stage before entering the movies. Miss Busch, who has always appeared in films as a vamp, plays the role of a minister's daughter in "The Christian."

BRINGS SUIT FOR PERSONAL INJURIES

An action of tort in the sum of $5,000 for alleged personal injuries, went to trial at the civil session of the superior court in this city this morning. The plaintiff in the case is Edward H. Earle of Westford, while the defendant is August B. Fletcher of Chelmsford. It is claimed that the defendant's automobile struck the plaintiff in North Chelmsford on June 6, 1921, while the latter was riding a bicycle. Before the case went to trial the jury took a view of the scene of the accident.

The case of Frederick E. Gray of Framingham vs. Joseph Withnoffsky, also of Framingham, an action of tort in the sum of $2,000 resulting from an alleged assault, which went to trial yesterday morning, was brought to a close late yesterday afternoon, the plaintiff being awarded a verdict of $75.

OPENING MEETING OF
BOY SCOUT DRIVE

Enthusiasm was a marked feature of the opening meeting of the Boy Scout drive held at the chamber of commerce rooms last night, and the crowd which attended in spite of the heat felt that the prospects warranted a feeling of confidence that at the first report meeting, which is to be held next Monday evening in the chamber quarters at 8 o'clock, a large sum of money will be pinned to the credit of the drive. The drive opens today. John M. O'Donoghue, in the absence of the president, acted as temporary chairman, and Royal White occupied the position of secretary. Reports from the captains were called for by Mr. O'Donoghue, and practically every team was reported well filled with good workers. Although some pledges and cash have already been received, they will not be accounted for until the first report meeting, at which time every worker is expected to report substantial progress. No card restrictions have been made, and it is of prime importance that the names of all contributors be carefully recorded and preserved for record purposes. All checks for the scouts should be made payable to Charles F. Langley, treasurer, and forwarded to Boy Scout headquarters, 308 Fairburn building. The directors of the local chamber of commerce and the members of Lowell Rotary club have given their endorsement to the Boy Scout movement. At the regular meeting of the chamber of commerce directors on May 22, resolutions were unanimously passed which stated that the members believed that such a movement properly conducted will aid in developing the city's youth through citizenship training, character building and Americanization work into good citizens, and that they not only endorsed the present effort and recommended the program of the scouts to all agencies seeking a boy's program, with thoroughly proven constructive features in citizenship and character but they commended the program to all who, either by their personal efforts or financial means, seek to better the standards of character, efficiency and citizenship in the youth of the city. The president of the Lowell Boy Scouts, Mr. C. D. A. Grasse, has also received a letter from the Lowell Rotary club, in which he is informed that the organization voted at the last meeting to endorse the present drive.

Lieut. Col. J. E. Broome now is crossing Europe with Major W. T. Blake. British bid for the first leg of a flight around the world.

Lillian Russell, "The queen of American opera," in private life Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, wife of the editor and publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader for more than 30 years starred in various operatic roles in the United States and England. She was one of the most popular singing actresses on the American stage. Still famed for youthfulness and beauty after she retired from the stage, she toured her native land with a lecture on "How to Live a Hundred Years."

During the war Miss Russell was active in Red Cross and Liberty loan campaigns. She was born in Clinton, La. Dec. 4, 1861, the daughter of Charles E. and Cynthia Leonard, and removed to Chicago with her parents when four years old, her father becoming a member of a printing firm. Educated at the convent of the Sacred Heart, Chicago, she studied vocal and violin music and sang in a church choir. In 1876 she won a course in voice culture under Madame Scherrenburg and later studied for opera under Leopold Damrosch. Miss Russell's first stage appearance was in the chorus of "H. M. S. Pinafore" in 1879. Leaving Rice's company in 1881.

Ship Death List Cut From 80 to 34

BUENOS AIRES, June 6.—Discovery of additional survivors from the wreck of the steamship Villa Franca on the Parana river has brought the estimated death list from 80 to 34, according to advices to La Nation. It is believed the figure will be still further reduced.

To Form "Ford For President Club"

DETROIT, June 6.—Preliminary organization of the "Ford for president club" and the naming of a committee formally to ask Henry Ford to become an independent candidate for the presidency, is planned by the manufacturer's townspeople, who have called a meeting at Dearborn for tonight. Mr. Ford has not publicly announced his attitude, but friends at Dearborn assert that he has indicated he would enter the race should the public desire him to do so.

Appeals for Protection of Armenians

WASHINGTON, June 6.—An appeal to the churches and their members to urge upon congress that the American government take necessary steps to "ensure permanent protection of Armenians and other Christians under the Turkish rule" was announced today by the federal council of churches of Christ in America. The council's letter to church pastors favors among other things that the United States extend "financial support to whatever body assumes the trust of organizing the administration of Armenia." Asserting that the United States and its allies in the war pledged the Armenians protection from the Turks the council expresses opposition to the action of the allied powers in "preparing a treaty with the Turkish nationalists which threatens to return the Armenians to unrestricted Turkish control."

she played Mabel in a burlesque on "The Pirates of Penzance" at Tony Pastor's theatre. She took the name of Lillian Russell, her grace and charm soon winning for her the sobriquet of "Alky, fairy Lillian." She became a Casino theatre star and remained at that New York playhouse until 1899, when she became a member of Weber & Fields stock company, singing with the famous comedians for several years. Later she was engaged as a prima donna by the McCaull Opera company, continuing there until her own company was organized. She then toured the United States and England, and at the end of several successful seasons, entered vaudeville. Miss Russell had been thrice married before becoming Mrs. Moore, first to Harry Graham, musical director of Rice's "H. M. S. Pinafore" company, from whom she was divorced in 1893; second, to Edward Solomon, conductor of the Casino theatre orchestra, New York, whose marriage she had annulled in 1894, and third, to Signor Perugini, in private life John Chatterton, an operatic tenor, who died a number of years ago. She was married to Mr. Moore in 1912. "Always interested in the welfare of working girls, Mrs. Moore helped them in numerous and unostentatious ways. Her spirit of daring was shown in 1913, when she made a voyage in a Zeppelin over the city of Berlin."

DISTRESS AFTER EATING

"No matter how careful I was in the selection of my diet I always suffered distress after eating," says Mary A. Young, of 253 Broadway, Bangor, Me. The dyspepsia was complicated with nervousness and my sleep was not sound; I was tired all the time, got out of breath easily and did not have much strength or ambition. I had medical treatment but continued to suffer for six months. "One day I read in a Bangor paper about a case similar to mine being benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I determined to give them a trial. After the first box I noticed improvement. My food seemed to digest better and I was slowly gaining in strength. I continued the treatment and soon the feeling of distress after eating was gone. I feel better than I have for a long time and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly have helped me more than any medicine I have taken. I have recommended them to others and am glad to do so." ## Why the Flavor?

THERE is a richness, a trueness of flavor, to Jersey Ice Cream agreeably surprising at first taste. It is usually remarked about, until acquaintance with Jersey proves this exceptional flavor to be not the exception.

We could make Jersey with a less true, a less satisfying flavor—at a higher profit; but a quarter of a century in this business has demonstrated to us that quality wins. And in ice cream, true, pure flavor is a big share of that quality.

Read This Story and Find Out What Are Your Chances When You Drink Bootleg Whiskey

Bottled Death!

THIS SHOWS E. S. WILCOX, GOVERNMENT CHEMIST AT WASHINGTON, WITH THE 38 SAMPLES OF BOOTLEG COLLECTED BY N. E. A. SERVICE FOR THE SUN THROUGHOUT THE NATION. OF THE 34 SAMPLES NINE OUT OF 10 WERE RANK POISON. ONLY TWO PROVED TO BE WHISKEY OF PRE-PROHIBITION GRADE AND TWO TO BE PASSABLE GIN.

Nine Out of Ten Samples Poison—Bootleg Contains a Dangerous Concoction of Colored and Disguised Alcohol and Volatile Poisons—Samples Collected From Widely Scattered Cities

BY N. E. A. SERVICE
(Copyright, 1922, The Lowell Sun.)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—When you drink bootleg the chances are better than nine out of ten that you are drinking rank poison.
The Sun through N. E. A. service has established this by chemical analyses of 38 samples of bootleg bought in 15 cities scattered throughout the nation.
The samples have been analyzed by government experts.
Only two of the 38 samples proved to be whiskey of pre-prohibition quality. One of these was purchased in Boston; the other in Washington.
Two more were synthetic gin—held passable. One of these samples was from Cleveland, the other from Los Angeles.

But bootleg consumers in Boston, Washington, Cleveland and Los Angeles need not jump at the conclusion that because these samples were passable, all bootleg vended in these cities is safe. For other samples bought in these places proved dangerous.
Of the remaining 34 samples, 15 were doctored and diluted whiskeys or whiskeys produced from an alcohol base and artificially colored and flavored; 17 were raw moonshine of varying degrees of rancidity; one was poor beer containing wild yeast; and one was a distilled wine, of poor quality.

Where Samples Were Collected
Samples were collected from these widely scattered cities: Dallas, Tex.; Memphis, Tenn.; Denver, Col.; Norfolk, Va.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cleveland, Chicago, Seattle, Wash., San Francisco; Los Angeles; New York; Providence, R. I.; Boston and Washington.

They were bought from a wide range of bootleg channels and analyzed without selection. They came from drug stores, bell boys, bootblack, barbers, porters, milkmen, near-beer saloons and similar channels of the trade, with a few seized in official raids.

The samples were assembled in Washington, and analyzed for The Sun and N. E. A. service by government chemists in government laboratories.

The analyses showed that when you buy bootleg you get nearly always a dangerous concoction of colored and disguised alcohol, or a raw distillate full of aldehydes and volatile poisons that will leave you with an awful head the day after drinking, and a wrecked constitution after repeated doses.

content and the addition of a very small amount of oxygen converts them into active acids.

"The effect of these aldehydes," says William V. Linder, government chemist, "is to 'knock one out' much more quickly than would high-grade whiskey."

"Their consumption over any considerable period undermines the general constitution to a point where it seems much more susceptible to many diseases."

"While not immediately poisonous causing sudden blindness or death as does methyl or wood alcohol, their effect is definitely and cumulatively harmful."

Elements in Moonshine
The dangerous elements in moonshine and doctored whiskeys, for most part, Linder explains, are due to the unscientific distilling and blending, and to the unsanitary surroundings in which most of the operations are carried on.

"Moonshine," says Linder, "is produced for most part under the most unscientific and unsanitary conditions. The mash is fermented in barrels or tubs, usually in the open backwoods or in musty cellars. Under such conditions, the development of wild yeasts and unwholesome fermentations are common. Many moonshiners show evidences of active putrefaction."

"In distilling, too, all the volatile elements come over. In commercial distilling, for the production of high grade whiskeys, it was the custom to discard what was known as the 'heads,' or first run, containing the high alcohols and the more volatile oils, and the 'tails,' or the last run. Only the middle run was retained."

Moonshiner Uses Everything
"The moonshiner, however, runs it all in—heads, tails and middies. The elements that the commercial distiller carefully eliminated, therefore, remain in moonshine."

"Moonshine, moreover, normally receives no aging. Hence it retains all the injurious qualities inhering in a raw distillate containing high alcohols, aldehydes and fuel oil, and also whatever additional poisons or injurious chemical elements may have accumulated through improper and unsanitary fermentation and unscientific distilling.

"All these elements, even including in one case signs of putrefaction, were present in the samples in this test."

Serious Effects on Body

Aldehydes, high alcohols and volatile oils in moonshine have a directly injurious effect on the circulatory, kidney and nervous systems, according to Reid Hunt, former chief of the division of pharmacology, hygiene laboratory, United States public health service.

Also they result in "an increased liability to contract diseases or to contract them in especially severe form."
Among the ailments which these elements are generally recognized in the medical profession as aiding and abetting are:

Hardening of the arteries.
Cirrhosis of the liver.
A wide range of digestive disturbances.

Turning food into Beauty—

That's what this girl does—Can you equal her?

The glow of rich, red blood coursing through your veins, the response of muscles resilient with strength, a spring in your step and a light in your eye—

In short, "up and at 'em." That's what perfect health means.

The body draws its supply of health from the food you eat. You can calculate to a nicety the reserve you are building up for your future needs—work or pleasure.

The greatest demand of the body is for an energy food, fuel for the human engine, quickly converted into power.

Equal with this is the necessity for keeping up repair, building the stuff that forms the very fiber and framework of the body.

Bread-and-Milk is the perfect food for both these uses.

It contains the carbohydrates that supply energy for the immediate use of the body and leave a reserve of strength for protection.

It also contains the rebuilding material for muscles and tissues—the bone-building substance.

Bread-and-Milk eaten together form a perfect, balanced food. It supplies the body with energy and carries new materials to the parts in constant need of repair—all with no tax on nerves or digestion.

One meal a day of Bread-and-Milk — and your best gift—good health—your chief asset in the business of living, is insured against the inroads of poor nutrition.

For keen, abounding health, eat one meal each day of Bread-and-Milk.

CITY VS. POLITICIANS

It is time this wrangle over the filling of offices at city hall should be brought to an end. If the good of the service is the only consideration, this will be an easy matter. If the best interests of the city alone are considered, no holdover official will be displaced except by a more competent man. Of course, if Mayor Brown persists in bringing forward his personal or political friends to displace officials who are competent and efficient, he need not be surprised if the council refuses to confirm them. It seems that under present conditions the mayor and the council should be of one mind in working for the best interests of our city rather than for the personal or political fortunes of any set of individuals. There has been too much pulling and hauling for political advantage. Why not try to pull together for the city in order to see how a period of harmonious effort will work out for the benefit of Lowell?

The people may be fooled part of the time by political maneuvering, but not all of the time. It seems that they are beginning to place the blame for the city hall squabbles where they belong. They can tell between moves that are merely political and those that are intended to benefit the city as a whole. Needless litigation entails expense and unsavory notoriety. The citizens are tired of that and want no more of it. Business conducted on business principles is what is expected from our city government and anything else will meet popular condemnation. The interests of the city should outweigh those of political aspirants but unfortunately they don't. The question is asked, "why not?" and it must be answered in the long run.

IRELAND'S TROUBLES

The chief significance of the capture of Pettigo and Belleek in Ulster is, that British forces have been drafted there to protect the border against invasion by the republicans. Pettigo is a town about the size of Billerica but more compact; and Belleek is a still smaller town that has been made famous by its pottery. The activity of the British forces will demonstrate to the republicans that every attempt to strike Ulster will be met, not by Ulster forces alone, but by the power of England. The policy of Collins and Griffith was to avoid a clash with Ulster and by fair treatment, in spite of the persecution of the Sinn Féin in Ulster, to get the northern province to remain in the Irish Free State, for the treaty includes Ulster, although she is given the privilege of voting herself out within a month after the government begins to function under the treaty.

It is plain that a republic in the south of Ireland with Ulster maintained as a British stronghold, will preclude the idea of a United Ireland for which Collins, Griffith and other leaders, have been working. There can never be an independent Ireland unless there is first a strong and harmonious united Ireland. In a recent statement the Catholic hierarchy denounced the conditions of disorder due mainly to the action of independent military units and to the persecution of Catholics in Ulster, chiefly in Belfast. It is hoped that peace will be restored following the election to be held on the 10th instant; but under the plan upon which the election is projected, it will not give the people an opportunity to pass upon the treaty. That will be reserved for a general election under more peaceful conditions and when the voting register shall have been revised so that all the young people of both sexes who came of age since 1912 will have the privilege of voting. That is a right to which they are justly entitled, and no election on the treaty under the old register should be regarded as final or as giving a fair expression of the popular will. That is why the first election under the treaty will provide only for the opening of the provisional parliament under a new personnel.

When Lloyd George divided Ireland into "north" and "south," giving each its parliament, Ulster accepted and the south refused. That explains the present boundary trouble, as while the nine counties of Ulster are theoretically under control of the Ulster parliament, three of them have nationalist majorities and claim the right to be under the control of the Free State government. The treaty provides for a commission to settle any boundary dispute that may arise in case Ulster lays out. This matter, however, can be settled only after the treaty has been adopted and the government has started to function without any of the present troubles.

THE SHOE INDUSTRY

Indications are rapidly pointing toward a genuine revival in the shoe manufacturing business, from now on, and Lowell factories ought to get their full share of it. Although not in any sense a "shoe city" like Haverhill and one or two other New England cities, Lowell has more shoe manufacturing concerns in operation than is generally supposed. The local shoe industry is reported to be doing a very successful business, profiting temporarily, perhaps, by the labor unrest in the other larger eastern shoe centers. Advisers from Haverhill indicate that the industry there has its ears close to the ground, awaiting with more than passing interest the progress of wage negotiations in the other shoe cities. Demands for a readjustment of wages are probably coming in Haverhill before long, all signs pointing that way. Shoe manufacturers down the river declare that if they are to compete successfully with other shoe centers, like concessions covered. The situation calls for prompt investigation of restaurants, bakeries, and other lines of business that have to keep their doors continually. The insurance companies that are hard hit by such fires might help in a general investigation that would throw light on past fires and to prevent others of a similar kind.

We supposed that the trustees of the public library, not the mayor nor anybody else, were the parties authorized to purchase all books for the use of the citizens in general. Is that history of the World War purchased by the mayor to be a fixture at the executive office or is it to be turned over to the public library?

We do not see how Harvard can afford to discriminate against any class or race. We supposed that scholarship and character were the sole tests for admission to its halls of learning.

The opening of the mills in Manchester did not break the back of the strike, as was expected by the mill men. The way to settle such strikes is to call the strike leaders into conference and reach a compromise that will be accepted.

Today's word is imminent. It's pronounced (im-uh-nant, with accent on the first syllable. It means—threatening to occur immediately. It comes from Latin "imminere," to project. It's used like this—"Socialists from other countries who have gone to Russia to protest against the treatment they had heard that leaders of their faith were being subjected to there, are reported to be in imminent danger of lynching themselves."

Not a Moral Fault
The sweetest young thing had been greatly affected by the revival service and perhaps also by the good looks of the officiating clergyman. One afternoon she called for a little personal help. The minister was in, but unfortunately so was one of the elderly deacons. "I am afraid I have one dreadful fault," said the S.V.T. presently. "Every time I pass a mirror, I think of my beauty." The deacon looked at her for a moment, his eyes twinkling. "That's not a moral fault, sister," he said, "that's merely an error in judgment."

They Were Surprised
Into the restaurant she came with the air of a princess, a truly regal figure clad in brown from top to toe, and looking as if she had just visited a Parisian modiste and a beauty parlor—a perfectly groomed, handsome woman. There was an air of refinement about her. She looked expansively turned out in the simple, delicate way. She went forward at a stately and there were little exclamations of admiration and envy from other diners near. A waitress approached. Every one hushed to listen to the beautiful creature speak. In a high pitched voice she ordered, "Bring me an onion soup. It was brought and she ate it with a spoon!"

Divorce Was Granted

"How many wives have you had?" demanded the examining judge. "Six, you honn!" was the reply. "Why couldn't you get on with them?" "Well, sah, de first two splashed de white folks' clothes, de third one de white folks' shoes, de fourth one de white folks' hats, de fifth one de white folks' coats, de sixth one de white folks' pockets. Only the new days are our own;
Today is ours and today alone.

Every day is a fresh beginning.
Listen my soul, to the glad refrain,
And in spite of old sorrow and older
sighing,
And in spite of forecast and possible
pain,
Take heart with the day and begin again.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN WOMEN BAND TO PURGE SCREEN

I wonder how many people know that there are two pages of rather interesting reading in the front of the local telephone directory. If you go down to the bottom of the last column on the second page of the reading matter is a paragraph that will might be read once, and maybe twice. Let me quote it for you; its caption is "Excessive Use of Party Lines" and it runs as follows: "Satisfactory service on party lines depends largely upon the willingness of the joint users to co-operate with one another in their demand on the service. The company, accordingly, respectfully requests party line subscribers to limit their conversations to five minutes when others wish to use the lines for emergency work. It is a good little paragraph to look up in front of your telephone in case you are on a party line. The minutes do slip by you know."

"On with the dance" seems to be the popular slogan of the present generation. From my own personal observation about town, I think a great many people would rather dance than eat or sleep. Since the reopening of the ball-rooms at Lakeview and Benson, the attendance at each school has exceeded that of any previous years for a similar period of time. I notice the immense crowds about Merrimack square, especially on a Saturday night, waiting for electric car transportation to the popular resorts. The dancing is so limited and the demand so great, that I often wonder that there is no one injured. Accidents thus far have been few but the possibility is always there. People evidently forget the slogan "safety first" in their anxiety to get a seat or even standing room, and in their haste, they disregard the comfort of others, and a degree of boorishness that is very annoying.

Naturally with the coming of June, a young man or a young girl's fancy turns to thoughts of graduation. I am speaking now of high school graduation which is the culmination of a very strenuous year of study and play, during which time the student has not perhaps been conscious of the paternal guidance, the motherly love and the brotherly or sisterly comradeship of the members of the faculty. It is to the teachers that the graduates owe a debt of gratitude for their success in gaining the coveted diploma; to these men and women who directed the stumbling footsteps, soothed the aching hearts, and otherwise aided in the quest for knowledge, truth and character. High school pupils who their studies should gladly do so, confident that with hard work the opportunity to climb higher will surely come.

The industrial employment survey bulletin, published monthly by the U. S. employment service, contains a graphic chart showing the trend of employment nationally. It further shows a comparison in employment in the manufacturing industries. The number of employees in 1921 was 1,600,000 operatives, being recorded, while the lowest month was December with 1,400,000. The comment on employment tendencies, possibilities and developments, the bulletin contains an optimistic opinion for industrial improvement for the state of Massachusetts. Concerning Lowell, it says: "Aside from the depression in the textile line, there is a general feeling of optimism as to future conditions. Unemployment prevails principally in textiles. A number of dwelling houses are now under construction."

PRaise GIRL WHO SHOT AND KILLED ANDERSON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6.—Letters of sympathy and praise for the deed of a good girl, Miss Peggy Marie Beal, as she lay on a hospital bed fighting a battle for life, were received here today when she attempted to take her own life, after she had shot and killed Frank Warren Anderson, department store well known in this city. One letter was signed by a Kansas City doctor and his wife and another by a local nurse. "Our sympathy is yours," read one of the letters. "The world needs more girls who have the courage and ability to shoot straight. We regret, however, that you shot yourself. There is a great deal of work to be done up there yet, and the flowers bloom the same as ever."

Miss Beal was on the road to recovery.

FOUND LEAD CASKET IN CORNERSTONE

S. M. Bright, construction engineer in charge of alterations in the Hildreth building, which are being made for the S. S. Krasge Co., yesterday uncovered a telephone book, a business directory, a number of newspapers and a parchment concealed in a lead casket in the cornerstone of the building, which was laid in 1832. The casket bore the date of Aug. 23, 1832, and contained copies of the Lowell Weekly Sun, the Lowell Daily Courier, the Lowell Morning Times, the Evening Mail and Vox Populi. Most interesting of the contents, however, was a signed document by Thomas Nesmith dated Aug. 18, 1832, which tells that the land to be occupied by the Hildreth building was once the property of the Locks and Canals. The ownership is then intelligently traced to Philip Amos Hildreth whose name it bears at the present time.

FLAG FOR AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The June meeting of the American Legion auxiliary was held last night in Memorial hall. Mrs. Margaret Hewitt presided and a feature of the evening was the presentation to the society of a beautiful silk flag by the Edith Prescott Wolcott auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans. The presentation was made by Mrs. Edith Gilmore. The meeting adjourned with salute to the flag. The next meeting will be held July 10.

BOARD OF HEALTH

At its weekly meeting late yesterday afternoon, the board of health granted a license to Thomas Boucher to conduct a stable in New York street. Dr. Foster H. Smith of the Contagious hospital conferred with the board on the long and monthly bills, payrolls and regulations for such places were approved.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem NOWHERE

There are moments when I sicken of complexities that thicken
In this much sophisticated day and age;
When the aims of life seem futile and my efforts all inutile
Like the running of a squirrel in a cage.
Oh it's then I want to go where there's no rushing to and fro, where Trains and trolleys do not roar, nor autos whiz;
Where there's no one that I owe, where it's the Other Side of Nowhere,
Though I haven't any inkling where that is!

There are times when work is restless and the soul of me is restless
For a change to something else than I have got;
When I want to—how I want to!—go some place I've never gone to,
Where I'll find—if doesn't really matter what!
I would beat it, I would blow where life's a different kind of show, where
There's a new and novel note that I can strike;
So I crave to up and go where it's the Other Side of Nowhere,
Though I do not know at all what it is like!

Yet I fancy folks who grow where it's the Other Side of Nowhere
Are illogically wishing they could be
Where I find myself at present; and they'd doubtless find it pleasant
If they might—on some occasions—swap with me;
For the Other Man's existence seems entrancing—at a distance—
Though perhaps I wouldn't like it, after trial.
But right now I want to go where it's the Other Side of Nowhere,
And just stick around and try it for awhile!

Unemployed Veterans Walk Home

OTTAWA, June 6.—"General" Frank Riley and his army of unemployed veterans, 267 strong, started late last night to march back to Toronto. They refused the Dominion government's offer of a train. Premier King and Minister of Labor Murdock addressed the men before they left. Both Mr. King and Mr. Murdock asked Riley for the names and regimental numbers of his men, promising that their grievances would be at once investigated and relief afforded where such was indicated.

Big Increase in P. O. Business

WASHINGTON, June 6.—An increase of nearly 15 per cent in the business of the postoffice department, during May, as compared with the same month of last year, was regarded today by the department as an indication of steadily increasing prosperity throughout the country, especially as it related to business. Assistant Postmaster General Glover states that this increase was the greatest within the past even years.

"Clean pictures by clean people" is the slogan of the women of Sacramento, Cal., who have organized to elevate motion picture taste. Their method is simply to advertise and boost pictures meeting the approval of their pre-viewing committee and to say nothing about the others. Their verdict is practically the final word with exhibitors as well as public.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The second rank staff of Chevalier-Middlesex lodge, Knights of Pythias, and a delegation of members visited Chelsea Monday night to confer the rank of Esquire for Myrtle lodge of that place. The work was done in excellent form, and the visitors were royally entertained by their hosts. This is the third time this staff has been called upon to work this rank in other cities. More than 100 guests were entertained having been made to William B. Gale lodge of Lawrence and to Lowell lodge of this city.

elevator operator and freight handler. His work required him to operate an elevator from the basement to the upper floor of the employer's building. When the employer was carrying freight to and from the elevator and to do this both inside and outside the building. The temperature of the room called the bakeshop, on the upper floor, which room the employee had to enter and work in while handling freight, was very warm, about 90 degrees. On the lower floor where the elevator opened into an alley, in which he also had to work the temperature was that of outdoors.

In allowing Weatherhead's claim for compensation, Commissioner Dickinson says:—

"On the date of the injury, the weather was cold, the snow falling, and a sharp wind blowing in the air. When the employer was working in the bakeshop, the high temperature and the work caused him to perspire. When he went from the bakeshop on this day, by the elevator, to the basement and alley, the change from the high temperature to the cold and wind was very penetrating and chilling to his body."

"It is found that the exposure to this chilling and cold on this day, after leaving the bakeshop, was of special severity and for a somewhat unusual length of time. The heat and chilling to which the employee was exposed, the periods of time, and the clothing he wore, were required to be made necessary by the conditions of his work. It is found that from this exposure, occasioned and required by his work, a condition of pneumonia was aroused and contracted, and the employee suffered a total incapacity thereby."

"The insurer contended that the disability as received, if admitted that its causes and consequences were as found, did not constitute as a matter of law, a personal injury arising out of and in the course of the claimant's employment. It is ruled and found that the disability was the result of special and unusual exposure to such conditions, peculiar to the claimant's employment, and required and made necessary by the conditions of his work. It is found that from this exposure, occasioned and required by his work, a condition of pneumonia was aroused and contracted, and the employee suffered a total incapacity thereby."

Accordingly the commissioner has awarded to Mr. Weatherhead compensation in the amount of $10 per week for the entire period of his disability, amounting to $105.71 at the time of the hearing, and to continue until he is able to return to work.

WOMAN SPEAKER WITH FLYING SQUADRON

Rev. Norma C. Brown, of Bloomington, Illinois, the only woman speaker of the Flying Squadron, was the youngest chaplain the Illinois state senate ever had and the only woman who has ever filled that position. She will be heard in this city on the third day of the visit of the Flying Squadron in its nation-wide campaign. In the T.M.C.A. gymnasium on Monday afternoon and evening, June 19th, at 7:30 and 9 p. m.

The Flying Squadron is divided into three groups, each spending a day in this city. Miss Brown travels with the third. Each speaker is heard both afternoon and evening in each city to which they go.

Miss Brown, though the youngest member of the combination, is reported to be a most interesting and charming speaker.

THE REGULATION OF CHILD LABOR

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Congressman Rogers saw President Harding yesterday and urged him to stand behind a constitutional amendment concerning regulation of child labor. Mr. Rogers believes as the two attempts by congress to pass such laws have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, a constitutional amendment will be necessary. He has introduced such a bill and has asked President Harding to present the desirability of such an amendment to congress in a special message. The president assured Mr. Rogers he would give sympathetic attention to his request, but did not make known whether or not he would adopt the suggestion.

LOWELL POST OF AMERICAN LEGION

Plans for taking over the "McManus" picnic were discussed at some length at last night's meeting of the American Legion held in Memorial hall. W. C. MacKrayne, who managed the affair last year as head of Battery B, was present and it was at his suggestion that the meeting took action on the matter. A committee will be appointed to arrange for the details.

M. H. Harrington, a member of the relief committee, announced that the sum of $1909.05 had been collected on Daisy Day which was held on May 27. The meeting also looked with favor upon forwarding a request to the police and fire departments asking that veterans in these two departments be permitted to wear their insignia on their uniforms at all times. It was brought out that this practice is carried on in several large cities of the country.

DANCING PARTY

The last dancing party of the year by the staff of the Lowell High School Review will be held next Friday evening and it is anticipated that the students will get in line for this closing social event in large numbers. The expense incidental to publishing The Review will be partly defrayed, at least, by the proceeds of this affair. An announcement was made yesterday by Chief Editor Brendan Leahy that tickets may be obtained from staff members at all times until Friday evening, and that no tickets will be sold at the door.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.—Adv.

REPORT WARD TO DENIAL BY INVENTOR AMPLIFY STORY

Grand Jury Held Over From May to Delve Into Killing of Peters

Report Parents of Victim
Plan to Bring Civil Suit
Against Ward for $50,000

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 6.—The Westchester county grand jury held over from May was expected today to begin its delving into the killing of Clarence Peters and the story of a blackmail gang given by Walter S. Ward as his reason for shooting the ex-sailor.

Citizens here today were discussing with avid interest the report that Walter S. Ward was preparing to amplify his story of the shooting.

The parents of Peters, who failed to appear here yesterday, were reported to be planning to institute a civil suit against Walter S. Ward for $50,000 damages, no matter what the outcome of the grand jury investigation might be.

Mrs. Beryl Ward, wife of Walter S. Ward, was expected to be the first witness today.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Timothy Lynch and Miss Teresa Gray were married yesterday afternoon at St. Michael's rectory by Rev. Thomas J. Hengney. Miss Helen Gray, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while the best man was Mr. Paul Lynch, a brother of the groom. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, 224 Ludlum street. The couple will make their home in this city.

Enright-Smith

A very pretty wedding took place this morning when Miss Helen Gray, charming daughter of Mr. Edith Smith of 45 Sargent street, and Mr. Harold Aloysius Enright, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Enright of 227 School street, were united in marriage at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Francis Keenan. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of duchess satin and carried a train of white tulle and a bouquet of white flowers. The bridesmaid, Miss Helen Smith of Lawrence, a cousin of the bride, wore a gown of white tulle and carried a bouquet of white flowers. Frederick Enright, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. An elaborate musical program, under the direction of Organist Michael J. Johnson was given. Miss Frances Tighe sang Cherubini's "Ave Maria" in a most impressive manner. At the elevation Frederick G. Enright gave in the splendid white linen of the bride. Following the ceremony a splendid party was given at the home of the bride's mother, where a reception was held and a wedding breakfast served. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Enright left on a honeymoon trip to Maine and New Hampshire. Upon their return they will reside at 38 Sargent street. No cards.

Brennan Says Reported Success of His Helicopter Unfounded

LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press) Louis Brennan, in an interview with the Evening News today, said reports appearing in other English newspapers regarding the success of the inventor's helicopter were unfounded.

"The simple truth is that the machine has not been out of its shed," he was quoted as saying.

The Early Report
LONDON, June 6.—(By the Associated Press) A successful helicopter, dream of aviation experts for decades, has been devised by Louis Brennan, noted inventor, with the aid of the British government, according to the Pall Mall Gazette, which declares a new era in aviation has begun. Mr. Brennan is the inventor of the British torpedo and the gyroscopic motor.

It is claimed the new helicopter can rise from land on a small roof, hover stationary in the air, rise to a height of 2000 feet, and fly 60 miles an hour.

Brennan's machine, with the greatest possible safeguards for secrecy, was built in a huge airship shed at the Royal Aircraft establishment in South Farnborough, Hants. "It is the most important and far-reaching accomplishment yet attained in the history of flying," declares the Gazette.

Construction of the machine was begun more than a year ago behind heavily barred doors, and each of the limited number of assistants was sworn in secrecy.

Requirements which the air ministry laid down, and which were fulfilled by the helicopter, were that the machine must rise to a height of 2000 feet under its own power, carrying a pilot and fuel for one hour's flight, hover stationary for 30 miles in a wind of 20 miles an hour, land safely in any wind up to 20 miles an hour without horizontal motion and with the engine out off, and maintain a horizontal flight at an altitude of 2000 feet at a speed not less than 60 miles an hour.

"True," says the Gazette, "the problems that have baffled hundreds of minds have been solved."

AN ESCAPED PRISONER FORMER LOWELL MAN HOSPITAL IN BELFAST UNDER FIRE

Lowell Man Arrested Shortly After Leaving the House of Correction

In less than ten hours after he had been released from the house of correction in East Cambridge, Bernard Kane of this city, was arrested last night and haled into district court this morning, where he was sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction after pleading guilty to a charge of being an escaped prisoner.

Kane was arrested yesterday afternoon, shortly after he had stepped off the Boston train, by Officer McCann, on a warrant signed by Superintendent O'Donnell of the Tewksbury prison camp.

On November 8 of last year, Kane was found guilty of larceny when he appeared in district court here. He was sentenced to serve time in the Massachusetts State reformatory. He appealed the sentence and in superior court was sent to the house of correction for a term of six months.

Shortly after this, he was transferred to the prison camp and hospital in Tewksbury, where short time prisoners are confined to aid in the work in the hospital and camp. At the camp, labor is confined to tilling the soil and doing work incidental with the maintenance of the hospital and camp. The place is known as an honor camp.

On January 4, he effected an escape from the camp, but was captured two days later in Boston and returned to the East Cambridge institution to finish out the remainder of his sentence. At the time of his escape from the camp, he had in his possession some state clothing which he later disposed of in Lawrence. It was possible to bring a charge of larceny against him for this act, but the authorities decided not to do this, but to simply bring the escaped prisoner charged.

It is expected in the future that the department of correction, which has jurisdiction in such cases, will ask for more severe penalties.

Edmund J. Cheney, special state police officer, connected with the department of correction, was in the city and expected to prosecute the case had not Kane entered a plea of guilty.

Stanislas St. Onge Passed Away at His Home in Rhode Island

Mr. Paul Vigeant of Riverside street, who is convalescing from a very serious illness, has received word of the death of one of his intimate friends, Stanislas St. Onge, a former resident of this city, which occurred at his home in Arcle, Centre, R. I., Sunday night after a brief illness.

Mr. St. Onge was born in Canada, but came to Lowell when a boy. After leaving school he secured employment as a bundle boy at the J. L. Chaffoux store and worked his way up to the position of manager of the Chaffoux store at Birmingham, Ala. Some 20 years ago he left the employ of Mr. Chaffoux and opened a small store in Arcle, Centre, R. I., which after a few years grew into one of the largest department stores in Rhode Island.

Mr. St. Onge was 63 years of age. He was an exceptionally capable business man. Although away from Lowell for over 25 years, he never forgot his Lowell friends, for two or three times a year he came here to spend a few days to renew acquaintances. He will be remembered by many of the old French-speaking people of this city as well as by many who were in business in Lowell 30 years ago. He is survived by six children. His funeral will take place tomorrow.

Mr. St. Onge is expected to bring with him the revised constitution, and tomorrow the Irish representatives will meet Mr. Churchill for a preliminary discussion of the document.

Premier Lloyd George will arrive from Wales on Thursday. He will confer with Secretary Churchill and if satisfactory progress can be reported there will be a formal conference of the Irish and British representatives Friday morning in Downing street.

In official circles here the outlook for the continuance of the conference is regarded as distinctly favorable, since the ground was somewhat cleared by the answers the Irish representatives gave last Friday to the definite questions propounded by the British.

HELPING THE STRIKERS MILLS RUN WITH SCANTY FORCES

Business Men Give Liberally to "Dollar" Day Drive for Strikers

Contributions in the "Dollar" day drive for the benefit of the strikers at the Hamilton Mfg. Co., and the Day State Cotton Corporation are coming in fast, according to reports given out at strike headquarters this morning. The business men of the city are responding cheerfully and liberally, and although one dollar contributions are being sought from each merchant and friend of the labor movement, many are donating larger amounts.

The S. H. Harrison Co. has sent in its check for $25, while $10 checks have been received from Saunders' Public Market, Inc., and Flynn's Market. John Healey of Mitchell, the editor has sent in his check for $10, and all other contributions received so far were for one and two dollars. J. E. Lyle, the Central street jeweler, made his contribution in the form of a pearl necklace and box valued at $7.50. He donated the article to John Hanley this morning, saying he believed a substantial sum could be derived from the necklace. Later Mr. Hanley announced that the necklace would be disposed of in a drawing contest.

Reports were received at strike headquarters today to the effect that the foot mills started up three weaving departments yesterday after having been shut down for several months. It is said this means an increase of about 600 looms in operation. Good reports are also being received from the Tremont & Suffolk, where it is said preparations are being made for the starting up of 400 extra looms.

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Lowell Couple in Wedding Anniversary Celebrations in Worcester Yesterday

A double celebration of interest to Lowell people took place in Worcester yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Pruneau of Worcester celebrated their golden wedding, while Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Chenette of 731 Merrimack street, this city, also participated in the event in observance of their 25th marriage anniversary. Mrs. Chenette being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pruneau. It had been planned to make the event a triple celebration which would have also included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pruneau, the former, a son of the aged couple, who were also married twenty-five years ago yesterday, but owing to the illness of the Boston woman, it was impossible to carry out the program.

The celebration opened with a solemn high mass of thanksgiving at St. Anthony's church, the celebrant being Rev. Joseph E. Perreault of the Holy Name of Jesus church, who was assisted by Rev. Louis D. Gendron of Notre Dame church, as deacon, and Rev. Louis Doydier, A.A. president of Assumption college, as sub-deacon. During the ceremony the two couples renewed their marriage vows, Mr. and Mrs. Pruneau being attended by Mr. and Mrs. Chenette, while the latter had as witnesses, their son and daughter, Edmund and Alphonse Chenette. The church service was followed by a family dinner served at Hotel Warren, and in the evening the two couples were tendered a reception in Dodge hall, the affair being attended by about 300 people. Mr. and Mrs. Pruneau were presented a purse of gold, while Mr. and Mrs. Chenette were remembered with a silver service.

N. H. Cotton Plants, Which Reopened Yesterday, Continued Operations Today

Arrest of Six Strikers for Picketing Reflected in Lack of Demonstration Today

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 6.—The cotton mills that reopened yesterday after a strike-enforced shutdown of more than three months, continued operations with scanty forces today, except in the case of the Pacific mills at Dover, which had closed soon after opening yesterday for lack of workmen.

At the Coolidge mill of the Ameskeag Manufacturing Co., here, between 100 and 200 of the 15,000 workers normally employed, reported for duty, while hundreds stayed in the streets. Police observers said the number reporting was nearly twice that of yesterday when the count was 127. Strike leaders asserted the number was less. The mill management again refused to make any estimate.

The Nashua and Jackson mills at Nashua, resumed operations, with about the same number of workers. The arrest of six strikers for picketing last night as a violation of the terms of a court injunction, was reflected in a lack of demonstration by the few strike sympathizers in the vicinity of the mills at the opening hour.

While the situation here continued practically unchanged, similar reports came from textile centers throughout the state. At the Pacific mills in Dover it was said that operations were continuing in part, but no reference to the number of workers would be made. At the Great Falls Manufacturing Co., in Somersworth, it was announced that work was continuing and that there were slightly more workers reporting.

The Nashua Manufacturing Co., officials announced that 75 per cent of the workers notified to join the operating forces today, and that employment was greater than at any time during the strike.

Fitchburg Mill Forced to Close
FITCHBURG, June 6.—Three Pack-hill mills owned by C. G. Gingham mills, reopened yesterday after a strike of 10 weeks, were started up again this morning. One was forced to close because none of the operatives reappeared. The others are running with depleted forces.

Union pickets, 300 of whom patrolled about the mills reported, that the same number of operatives are at work as yesterday when the company officials said not more than 20 per cent accepted the invitation to return.

Principally because extra policemen kept the streets with Pack-hill agents moving instead of allowing them to congregate, there was no trouble at the gates.
